

IT WAS a fine and a brave thing for Archbishop Hanna, as head of the State Immigration and Housing Commission, to raise the question of Mexican immigration. That immigration is in an exceptionally favorable position even now. There is no quota on Mexico. But there is a head tax and a visa fee, which does put some restriction on the entrance of the poorest class of Mexican people. Some representatives of the cotton and beet sugar industries, seeking cheap seasonal labor, have asked for the removal of even these restrictions. Archbishop Hanna, writing to the California delegation in Congress, protests.

Archbishop Hanna has no hostility to Mexicans. Religiously, they are of his faith. If many of them are poor and ignorant, no one has more charity for these fallings than he. And no one better appreciates the fine qualities of Mexico's civilization, and of the people who reflect that civilization. But these are not the people whom our seekers after cheap labor import. Their immigrants, when they get through with them, are dumped into our city slums, where they fill our jails with delinquents, our relief institutions with dependents, our hospitals with pestilence, and our schools with morons. They add nothing to our population but the prospect of another race problem, selected from the worst heredity of that race.

California should produce two things. One is goods. The other is people. The industries of the state are entitled to all the progress and prosperity they can make, by producing goods, up to the limit that can be reached with people who are also desirable.

If we are to have Mexicans, let them be the desirable ones. They will not be so cheap. But they and their descendants will be an asset, rather than a liability of the state.

MATERIAL men in the East Bay threaten to retaliate on the union carpenters, if they strike for the union shop, by refusing to sell supplies to contractors employing union men.

This, like every other rule, is a perfectly good one if it works both ways. If the boycott is right, when thus applied by the material dealers, it is also right when used by the workers. If it is right, by the refusal of supplies, to coerce contractors into the association, it is likewise right for the union, by similar methods, to coerce workers into the union. Or, if the "open shop" is right, to protect the workman in his liberty to join or not to join the union, then it should also be right, to protect the contractor in his freedom to join or not to join the association, and to be dealt with on equal terms whether he joins it or not.

WHERE are the Progressives of yesterday? If I remember lists group of them who, he complains, have grown weary in their liberalism.

Naturally, many things have happened to them. Most of them have grown old, and fat and prosperous, which is bad for the soul. Some of them have grown lean, radical and irresponsible, which is worse. Mencken thinks that the trouble is that they placed their faith in the people, who proved unworthy of it; but this is not true. The people are all right; but they have grown prosperous and lazy, too. Prosperity does not breed radicalism and it renders progressivism temporarily dispensable. Most of the things the Progressives started out to do are done, and the rest do not seem urgent, in a time of great prosperity. So they wait. When the time comes for them to be important again, doubtless they will find other and younger leaders.

So Progressives grow old, and progressivism itself stands while aside to observe the inevitable conservative reaction. But progress does not stop. Even the conservatism of the present is an intelligent, constructive and public-spirited conservatism, which, since it is the nearest to it we can get, is the next-best thing to progressivism. In the Coolidge era, the conservatism of the Mark Hanna would be unthinkable. And in the more progressive reaction to follow, the dragons to slay will not be the crude and brutal ones whose corpses are the monuments of the last progressive crusade.

ONCE more we find that, while there is such a thing as the Republican and Democratic parties, there is no such thing as Republican and Democratic principles.

If there is a well-established Republican principle, Secretary Mellon certainly represented it in opposing the proposed silver purchase legislation. If there is an orthodox Democratic principle, certified as such for thirty years, it is in favor of such legislation. Yet the Republican majority of the Senate Committee reported against the Republican administration leader while the Democratic minority, repudiating Democratic doctrine, voted with Secretary Mellon.

Practically every important measure in Congress finds about an equal number of Republicans and Democrats on both sides of it. There is no such thing as a Republican or a Democratic side—or if, in the light of history and of party declarations there is a Republican side, Democrats are quite as likely as Republicans to take it. It is easy to tell "who" is the Republican or the Democratic party. It is impossible to define "what" either of them is.

Two Infants Abandoned on Doorstep

BABES FOUND DESERTED AT HOME IN S. A.

Boy and Girl, Presumably Brother and Sister, Are Cast Aside by Parents

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL
Discovered at Residence Of H. P. Baker; County Assumes Charge of Waifs

ABANDONED and suffering from cold, as a result of lying out doors in the chill night air, two sturdy babies, presumed to be brother and sister, were found, last night, in the back yard of the H. P. Baker home, 1509 Dresser street, when an infant's pitiful cry attracted attention of members of the Baker family.

The babies, a girl, about 6 weeks old, and a boy, approximately 20 months of age, wrapped in two blankets, were discovered in the doorway of an unoccupied garage-house, at the rear of the Baker home, Mr. Baker.

Girl First to be Found
Picking up the tiny form of the girl, Baker rushed into the house and notified his wife and two guests, who went to the garage-house to investigate further. It was not until then that the other baby emitting lusty cries, attracted their attention, and the Bakers learned that two children had been left in their yard.

"Mother, I hear a baby crying out there," declared a young son of Mr. and Mrs. Baker, as he was being put to bed. And then Baker investigated.

The waifs were warmed, bathed and given motherly care by Mrs. Baker. Then police were notified, and they took charge of the infants. The children later were removed to the Orange County hospital.

Police are conducting a city-wide search for the mother of the children, although they are virtually certain that a mother, alone, could not have taken the children to the house. A father may also have played a part in leaving the children there, they said.

Clothing for Babes
Beside the children, a bundle of clothing was found. Many of the garments were new, indicating that the family was not destitute. Stockings worn by the boy were new, having never been washed.

The boy was dressed in a brown sweater, almost new, khaki trousers, socks and shoes, and a little red and yellow stocking cap. The shoes were new, but were too small for him.

The clothing of the girl was white and in good condition, Mrs. Baker said. Marks of identification had been removed from all the clothing. The garments were wrapped in a newspaper, an edition of the "Evening Telegram," of February 20.

Pets of Hospital Nurses
Nurses at the county hospital have taken a great liking to the two children, who are receiving careful attention. Asked what would become of them, the nurses said that eventually they probably would be adopted and possibly the little boy and his little sister would be separated, to go to different homes, probably in different cities.

"We are never going to let them be separated," one of the nurses said today. "It would be a shame," she added.

But Dr. Harry Zaiser, superintendent of the hospital, asserted that, if the children were adopted, they most likely would go singly from the hospital.

HOSPITAL NURSES ACT AS MOTHERS TO TWO UNIDENTIFIED SANTA ANA WAIFS

Here are pictures of the two babies found abandoned in the back yard of the H. P. Baker home, 1509 Dresser street, last night. The children, now at the Orange County hospital are being held by Miss Irene Judy, right, and Miss Allie Martin, left, nurses at the hospital.

500 OFFICERS IN SEARCH OF DESPERADOES

LOS ANGELES, March 17.—The new $6,500,000 Hall of Justice building was condemned today in a report by the Los Angeles county grand jury.

"The structure is not adequate to properly safeguard and retain in custody the prisoners confined in it," the report said.

Both the county supervisors who constructed the building, and Sheriff William L. Traeger, in charge of the jail management, were severely criticized by the grand jurors.

DROP QUIZ ON DEATH OF MAN AT TIA JUANA

SAN DIEGO, March 17.—There will be no further investigation of the death of Tia Juana of Carl Reynolds, of Huntington Park, Calif., authorities here decided today.

Reynold's death was the result of heart disease and cerebral hemorrhage, it was ruled after an inquest at Tia Juana. Relatives and authorities of Huntington Park demanded an investigation on the alleged theory he had been beaten by Mexican police after his arrest on charges of intoxication.

Federal Judge S. Urias, at Tia Juana, returned the verdict, after a Mexican autopsy surgeon testified there were no bruises on the body.

Joe Brown, Reynold's chauffeur, was a principal witness at the inquest. Brown testified that Reynold did some light drinking Sunday at one of Tia Juana's bars and then collapsed. He was taken to the police station and later to the government hospital, where he died Monday morning.

When Reynold's death was first attributed to "acute alcoholism" by Mexican authorities, Chief of Police Williams, of Huntington Park, demanded an investigation, declaring the victim had not been a heavy drinker.

Richard Benough, secretary of the Elks' club here, issued a statement in which he said:

"I am satisfied that Mr. Reynold's death was due to natural causes."

The body of Reynold was brought here and was forwarded today to Huntington Park for burial.

WOMAN TAKES OWN LIFE WITH POISON POTION

Authorities today are endeavoring to learn the cause for the suicide, in Orange, late yesterday, of Mrs. Viola Virginia Stevens, 42, Los Angeles practical nurse, who died in the Orange County hospital, 30 minutes after she had swallowed a large amount of strychnine, contained in a glass of soda water.

The woman was in such a serious condition when she reached the hospital that she was unable to talk.

According to information in the hands of Coroner Charles D. Brown, Mrs. Stevens came to Orange yesterday, on a street car, from Los Angeles. A return ticket was found in her personal belongings. In Orange, she went to a drug store, where she bought the strychnine, then went to another drug store, where she ordered the soda water. Placing the contents of the strychnine package into the soda water, she drank the mixture and walked out of the store to the plaza, nearby, where she seated herself on a park bench. Mrs. Stevens met someone in the park, according to reports, and informed them that she had taken poison. An Orange physician was summoned and he rushed the woman to the county hospital. The woman is alleged to have told the physician that she desired to end her life.

No Los Angeles street address has been found in Mrs. Stevens' belongings, but it was learned that she has four daughters, all residing in Arizona. Two daughters live in Tucson, one in Phoenix and one in Bisbee. Miss Evelyn Stevens, Tucson, is expected in Orange late today or tomorrow to take charge of the body of her mother and to make funeral arrangements.

Coroner Brown said today that he had not completed arrangements for the inquest but that it probably would be held in the Gilgilly Funeral home, Orange, tomorrow.

Coroner Brown also is investigating a rumor that the woman may have committed suicide because of a disappointment in love. It is reported in Orange that she had been separated from her husband for the last four years.

That the woman was employed in Huntington Beach, recently, as a nurse, also was reported to Brown.

COLONEL COOLIDGE STILL VERY WEAK

PLYMOUTH, Vt., March 17.—Dr. Albert M. Cram looks for no new developments during the next 24 hours in the condition of Col. John Coolidge, according to a statement made public just before noon today, after a two-hour visit to the home of the president's father.

Dr. Cram's bulletin read:

"There is nothing new to be said of Colonel Coolidge's condition this morning. His heart condition is fair. Temperature and respiration nearly normal. He remains very weak. He is unable to take any nourishment. He is very comfortable and not disturbed and bears what pain and discomfort is necessary with great fortitude. No new developments are expected during the next 24 hours.

PONZI FREED OF FRAUD CHARGES

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 17.—Charles Ponzi was freed today of federal charges of using the mails to defraud in promoting his Charleston Land syndicate for the sale of $10 Florida lots. U. S. Commissioner Noble dismissed the charges at the conclusion of the preliminary hearing. He ruled that the government's evidence against the Little Italian financier was insufficient.

CROWD CHEERS FILM PAIR; M'ADOO IS NOT RECOGNIZED

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 17.—Buck Jones, saddlebowed man of the movies, with his wife, stepped from a train platform here last night to smile before a union station throng.

The Joneses were asked to pose for pictures while fans of the "westerns" cheered.

A tall passenger of plain dress unwittingly passed between the cheered and cheering. The tall one withdrew, smiling.

Recognizing reporters asked a word from him. William Gibbs McAdoo would have nothing to say.

"I'm out of it now. Let someone else have the publicity. No one knows me any more," McAdoo replied.

Meanwhile Mrs. Jones commented: "It's been that way all the way here; I just know Mr. McAdoo will hate us."

Shamrocks Are Grown In United States

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Shamrocks grown in America are the vogue today—St. Patrick's day.

More than 50,000 packages of growing shamrocks were imported into the United States from Ireland last year, but they were replanted in American soil and cultivated for today's occasion, according to the commerce department.

Importation of shamrocks is increasing annually, foreign trade figures showed.

CHINESE MEET ULTIMATUM FOR MINE REMOVAL

PEKING, March 17.—Dispatches received today from Tientsin say the mines at the mouth of the Peiho river have been removed in compliance with the United States' and other powers' demands that the river be opened to navigation. It is understood that the nationalist Chinese troops controlling the Taku forts at the river mouth, will comply with the ultimatum.

The Soviet Russian embassy today officially stated that, although Russia was a signatory to the Boxer protocol, she did not participate in the ultimatum.

Ten American educators and missionaries today protested to U. S. Minister John V. MacMurray against American participation in any foreign military or naval action to compel observance of yesterday's ultimatum to the nationalist commanders of the Taku forts.

The ultimatum, the protestants told MacMurray, was not warranted, and the employment of armed force would be a clear departure from the United States' policy. The inevitable consequence of the use of armed force, they said, would be to increase anti-foreign feeling in China.

Among the signatories were: J. Leighton Stuart, president of Yenching University; Dwight Edwards and W. B. Pettus, of the Y.M.C.A.; Lucius Porter, of the American board of missions, and George Davis, of the Methodist mission.

MOTHER ACQUITTED OF CHILD'S DEATH

STOCKTON, March 17.—Mrs. Louisa Zamora was free today, after a harrowing trial of two years on charges of murdering Lenora Aguilar, her 5-year-old foster daughter.

The jury deliberated less than two hours and brought in the verdict late yesterday, much to the surprise of the district attorney.

The body of a little girl, supposed to have been the Aguilar child, was found in a cesspool at Tracy last September, after the girl disappeared. The woman later was arrested at Brawley.

RESCUE NEAR FOR ENTOMBED MINERS

MULLAN, Ida., March 17.—Rescue workers shortly before noon today were within a few feet of George Shew and another miner named Knappenberg, trapped in a drift at the 1800-foot level of the Morning mine, near here, yesterday afternoon.

The entombed men can converse with rescuers through the mass of wreckage in the main shaft. They are not injured, have good air and are in no immediate danger.

Only experienced miners who understand the work and can hold back the sliding debris, are being used in the rescue.

Man to Be Lashed At Whipping Post

BALTIMORE, Md., March 17.—Sheriff John Pote today prepared to carry out the sentence imposed on a convicted wife-beater—five lashes across the bare back at the whipping post. In addition to the lashes, the wife-beater, James Kingsmore, must serve 60 days in jail. The whipping post has been rarely used as a punishment for wife-beaters here in recent years. The last time it was invoked was in 1920 against a negro.

SESSION OF ASSEMBLY IS OF NO AVAIL

Locarno Treaties Will Not Function Because Berlin Does Not Gain Admission

BRAZIL IS DETERMINED

European Statesmen Much Disappointed at Collapse Of Geneva Negotiations

(By United Press)
GENEVA, March 17.—The first special session of the league of Nations assembly in the history of that organization adjourned today after unanimously voting to postpone Germany's admission to the league until September, when the assembly will meet in regular session.

Failure must be written on the record, as a result of the 10-day session which has just ended. Germany has not been admitted to the league. The Locarno agreements for European security, which provided for peaceful arbitration of disputes between France and Germany, Poland and Germany and Belgium and Germany, failed of consummation, with Germany's failure to get into the league. These agreements become effective only with Germany's admission. They remain in abeyance, therefore, until September, or such time as Germany may become a league member.

Germany Will Not Quit
"Germany's application for league membership will not be withdrawn," Foreign Minister Stresemann told the United Press.

Last moment negotiations had begun at 9 a. m. to circumvent stalemate which was preventing Germany's admission. The council met 45 minutes later in a final frenzied effort to dispose of the difficulties.

An English secretary rushed to the German hotel to warn the delegation that there might be a reprieve.

"We had been asked to remain prepared for all eventualities," Foreign Minister Stresemann then told the United Press.

This final effort failed.

Then the smaller powers, Switzerland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and the Latin-American countries, caucused on the assembly floor to organize for battle against adjournment of Germany's admission. Their efforts failed, too.

Assembly President Speaks
President Dacosta, of the assembly, rose before the gathering and announced that the business before the assembly was the admission of Germany to the league.

Melo Franco, the Brazilian council member, said his government stood on its decision to veto Germany's election to the council unless Brazil were simultaneously elected to permanent membership. He added an impassioned plea for American representation on the council.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, then mounted the tribune to announce that, unless Brazil would permit Germany's election to the council, it would be impossible to fulfill the promises under which Germany had been induced to apply for league membership. The blame for the impasse lay not with the Locarno signatories, Sir Austen said, adding that the Locarnoites had overcome all obstacles to reach full agreement.

Thus, continued Sir Austen, "with the moment arrived when Europe no longer is divided into two camps, but is united in an effort for peace, this inability to carry out the Locarno agreements is most regretful. Nevertheless, the seven signatories of Locarno are determined that their work of peace shall continue and that their efforts for conciliation shall be carried on."

Adjournment Is Proposed
Thereupon Premier Briand of France proposed adjournment. Sir Austen expressed the conviction.

REGULATION OF
MEXICAN LABOR WILL BE URGED

BY C. B. DODDS

Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 17.—As chairman of the senate immigration committee, Senator Johnson is carrying on a survey of California labor conditions for use in consideration of the bill that would put Mexican and Canadian immigration on the quota basis. He has been informed by the beet sugar interests and the cotton growers that Mexican labor is needed during harvest time to gather their crops.

The senator is checking up on this situation and gathering opinions of others by communicating with a number of farm bureaus, chambers of commerce and other interested organizations in his state.

He has figures from San Quentin penitentiary indicating that nearly one-fourth of the total prison population comprises Mexican aliens. He has been informed by charitable organizations in several cities that 80 per cent of their work is taken up with Mexican aliens who have been brought to California for seasonal labor and then left to shift for themselves afterward.

The cotton and beet sugar interests of California are not only opposing a quota bill, but are asking that the head tax and the visa fee be eliminated, so that it will be easier to bring in more Mexican peons for their work. These fees together amount to $18 per person and they make quite an expense where the head of a family brings in his wife and children.

Congressman Flaherty, of San Francisco, is vigorously opposing any measure that will increase Mexican immigration, taking the stand that there is plenty of labor now in California to handle any normal situation.

The first rotary club in congress is being organized by Congressman Albert E. Carter, of Oakland, with the hearty approval of the international organization. At the first meeting, 17 members of congress were present and 13 states were represented. Congressman Free, of San Jose, was the other Californian present. Carter and Free are believed to be the only California members in the delegation who are eligible. The new club will meet weekly in the speaker's dining room. The object of the club is to keep up the attendance records of the Rotarians in congress who find it often impossible to attend the Washington Rotary club down town.

Although friends of the Spanish war pension increase bill are hopeful of its enactment by congress, they are quite fearful of a veto when the bill reaches the White House. The bill grants substantial increases of pensions to Spanish war veterans and their widows, putting them more on a par with the compensation granted World war veterans. Managers of the bill are now endeavoring to expedite action with a view of passing it in both house and senate at an early date. They figure they can override a veto message with the present congress, with so many members coming up for re-election in the fall. They are not so sure of overriding the veto if the president takes adverse action after the adjournment of the present congress for final consideration.

The policies of Secretary Hoover in developing American business methods abroad and at home have attracted the attention of the English parliament. In a recent debate, members questioned the government and asked why it did not follow the same system Hoover did in the United States.

Government co-operation with industry was debated at length and the statement was made that the Hoover policies were a stabilizing influence of greater importance than is usually realized.

Snowden, the Socialistic member, said this of the American secretary:

"In the United States, for example, a great deal is being done in the way of collecting information and making it available to the country as a whole. In addition to standardization, elimination of waste, etc., Mr. Hoover has made it possible for various industries to produce intelligently, with proper knowledge of the consuming capacity of the market, wherefore the likelihood of overproduction is minimized."

California wants to participate in the National Balloon race, tentatively set for April, and hopes to have an entry that will qualify for the contest in Belgium later this year for the James Gordon Bennett cup.

Congressman Free has been asked by friends of the movement to obtain the consent of the war department for the use of the balloon assigned to the ninth corps area reserve army lighter-than-air unit.

He has taken the matter up with Secretary Davis, who is giving it careful consideration.

The United States has won the Bennett cup twice in the last two years, and if it is won for the third time in succession the cup will be brought to this country for future contests until won by some other power.

Blaze Threatens
Tampa Waterfront

TAMPA, Fla., March 17.—Fire early today threatened Tampa's waterfront and destroyed a large warehouse at the Lykes brothers docks, causing damage estimated at $130,000. Origin of the fire is not known. The Point Lobos, large steamship anchored in the warehouse dock was damaged by the flames. The steamship Elizabeth, a ship belonging to the Lykes company, and several freight cars also were damaged.

Gasoline Ignited
Under Parked Car

Gasoline caught fire under the automobile of Ed McClellan, chief criminal deputy sheriff, at Fourth and Main streets, at noon today. Three fire fighting trucks from central station, were driven to the scene. The blaze was smothered with a fire extinguisher before firemen arrived, however. McClellan's car was parked near the curb. Someone tossed a match into a puddle of gasoline underneath. There was no damage.

GHOULS PEER AT CORPSE IN ESTATE FIGHT

(By United Press)

SANDWICH, Ont., March 17.—Behind the desecration of a mausoleum here, authorities today saw the possibility of mysterious and as yet unanswered family suspicions.

Mrs. M. C. Markham, of St. Louis, Mo., sister of Miss Sarah Lavin, late of Anaheim, Calif., whose final resting place was broken into, has arrived here from St. Louis and offered $1000 for information leading to arrest of the vandals. The money has been deposited in the Imperial Bank of Canada, here.

Following her arrival, Mrs. Markham informed authorities that a brother, John Lavin, also buried in the mausoleum, had once entered into a strange agreement with the now deceased sister whereby he prevented anyone from viewing her body after death. It was shipped here from Anaheim.

Miss Sarah Lavin, according to Mrs. Markham, left the bulk of her reputed $200,000 estate to the brother, who in turn left the estate to Mrs. Markham.

John Lavin's will to Mrs. Markham was probated in the courts of California and later was the object of a court fight in Chicago. Relatives contended Mrs. Markham exerted undue influence. Her defense in the will was sustained.

Authorities believe, however, that as a result of the court fight and the odd agreement between the now dead sister and sister-in-law, anyone from viewing Miss Sarah's body—an effort was made to determine whether her body actually was shipped to Sandwich.

While the body was not removed from the casket, it was disinterred sufficiently to permit viewing it through a glass cover.

The will of the late John Drury Lavin, of Anaheim, was filed for probate in superior court in Santa Ana in March, 1923. Mrs. M. C. Markham filed the petition through Attorneys Leonard Evans and Ames and McFadden, of Anaheim.

ROADS GUARDED FOR TRACE OF
L. A. CONVICTS

Orange county deputy sheriffs guarded the roads leading into Orange county all yesterday afternoon and throughout the night, searching for the three criminals, who, early yesterday escaped from the Los Angeles city jail. No trace of the men was found.

Every car coming into this county and leaving it last night was stopped by men, armed with high powered rifles or shotguns, and searched.

Sam Jernigan, sheriff, said today that he was certain that the two murderers and one robber, for whom police of all Southern California are searching, have not entered Orange county.

Jernigan directed the search of the roads and cars until late last night, when Ed McClellan and Dan Adams, criminal deputies, took charge.

Motor police also were brought in on the search and a thorough watch was maintained, in the belief that possibly the criminals would make a break for the Mexican border.

WORK OF LEAGUE
ENDS IN FAILURE

tion that the others echoed, that Germany would be admitted in September.

Stresemann and Chancellor Luther, of Germany, are returning to Berlin without withdrawing their application for league membership. That is the most hopeful factor of an otherwise dreary situation. There is one bit of progress in the fact that the assembly's political commission has already unanimously approved Germany's application for membership, so that it will not have to be passed upon again in September.

Throughout the proceedings, which were a sorry anti-climax to the hopes of 10 days ago, there was no mention of the secret trades during the Locarno negotiations, when France and Great Britain apparently promised Poland a permanent council seat and thus precipitated the unpleasant situation as it has developed at Geneva. Mello Franco, however, did warn the assembly that Locarno was not bigger than the league. Briand and Chamberlain insisted that the league remained civilization's best defense against war and predicted friendly solution of all disputes in September.

"Germany today has accepted a difficult position with a spirit to which I, as a Frenchman, must pay tribute," Briand said.

Premier Briand received a message from the French ambassador to Brazil saying that President Bernardes refused to relinquish Brazil's claim for a permanent council seat, because it was a matter of "national honor."

If the failure of the League of Nations to admit Germany means that the league has not yet attained American ideals, it is the opinion here that the fault lies in the United States' policy of attaining the greatest commercial and least political relations with Europe.

The league, members said, today more than ever needs American idealism and collaboration to prevent it becoming a purely European organism.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE, BRITISH VIEW

LONDON, March 17.—British officials today mantled their disappointment over the failure at Geneva with the philosophic reflection that it would have been worse had the powers parted in anger. The failure to admit Germany to the League of Nations will embarrass all governments concerned, but probably will not precipitate any cabinet resignations, it was believed here.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT
It is interesting to those who the Gospel story incidentally mentions such various kinds of people as among the friends and acquaintances of the Master Man.
There was Nicodemus of the San-hedrin, the wealthy Joseph of Arimathea, the Roman centurion, and the wife of the steward of Herod. Then there were Pharisees, scribes, fishermen, merchants and tax collectors, soldiers, lawyers, big game hunters, gamblers, and sinners, and children of all ages.
Surely if He understood all of these, He understands you too!
If He brought hope and courage and strength to such of them as were lost, He will bring it to you if you will only turn to Him. He will not fail to satisfy your needs, if you open your heart to Him.

The WELL-DRESSED MAN

By BEAUNASH
Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion of pride; the instigator of jealousy; the defiler of the hours which should be given to rest and self-contemplation." Take your choice. However, from the standpoint of correct dress, both men's fashions and men's figures are indebted to dancing. It has made us more nimble, supple and well-set-up. It has brought forward thinner weaves and lighter weights in evening suits which are more comfortable.

Dancing has fostered the practice of the social graces which are always born in the ballroom, not the backwoods. It has banished the thick-soled and ungainly buttoned boot of former days and introduced low, laced shoes in which a man can step with a fair imitation of grace, instead of waddling around the room like a polar bear. Dancing is really responsible for the adoption of evening dress by the many
For years it was confined to the few.

Your patent leather dance Oxford should have thin, flexible, beveled-edge soles and low-square heels. The toe may be slightly tapering or the French squarish or spade shape, as shown here. Black calfskin and soft gunmetal kidskin are also to be seen, but the use of patent leather for dance shoes is virtually general now-a-days.
This is proper, as glossy leather gives the useful note of formality to evening dress.

Besides the patent leather Oxford, you may choose any one of various types of laced shoes having elastic side-gores that give-and-take. Some are high with pull straps fore-and-aft and are called evening gaiters. Others are low after the manner of an Oxford. Evening hose are black silk or black lisle or the thinnest of wool for men who like absorbent socks. Side clocks and embroideries are equally never been accepted as quite correct.

Happy Woman Praises Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

.....
In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma,
a herd of sleek cows was grazing.
They made a pretty picture.
But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a household of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer
blue and tired.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R.
9, Box 396, Oklahoma City, Okla.,
writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs.
Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight taken seven bottles of the Vegetable over fifteen years and is still finding things in the Louvre of absorbing interest.

Happy Woman Praises Lydia E.

.....
In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma,
a herd of sleek cows was grazing.
They made a pretty picture.
But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a household of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

.....
One day she began taking Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now
she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer
blue and tired.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R.
9, Box 396, Oklahoma City, Okla.,
writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs.
Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

LEGAL LIQUOR USED MOSTLY AS BEVERAGE

Ninety-five per cent of the prescriptions issued by physicians are used for beverage purposes, declares Col. R. E. Firth, prohibition administrator for Southern California and Arizona, who was a speaker at the Anaheim Kiwanis club meeting yesterday.

These prescriptions are issued by three classes of physicians, said Colonel Firth. As listed by the speaker, they are the young doctor, who is building up a practice, the elderly physician, who is losing practice, and the "good fellow."

According to Firth, modification of the dry act only will complicate matters.

"Every place manufacturing beer and wines would be in a position to turn out strong liquors without much danger of being caught in the act," declared Colonel Firth.

Co-operation of the customs, local county and the prohibition forces, as outlined recently by General Andrews, will do much toward making the country dry, declared the prohibition officer.

ANAHEIM DEBATE TEAM VICTORIOUS

various schools participating, as ington Beach, 9-9; Santa Ana, 9-9;

Orange, 7-11; Fullerton, 7-10; Gar-

AGITATION FOR MOUNTAIN ROAD TO BE RENEWED

Appointment of a committee to renew agitation for building of a highway across the mountains from Capistrano to Elsinore featured the annual meeting, last night, of the Capistrano Chamber of Commerce, held in the Mission cafe.

Following the election of officers and other business, the chamber membership was divided into two groups, to be known as the blues and the reds, for an intensive drive for new members. A number of applications were taken at the meeting.

Addresses were made by J. R. Hunt, manager of the fair, on plans for the coming fair, and by George Raymer, secretary of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, who spoke of co-operation of all chambers in the county on matters that were of county-wide importance and interest.

Officers were elected as follows: J. R. Malcolm, president; Carl Hankey, vice president; Fred L. Jones, secretary, and Harlow Hall, day treasurer. Directors chosen were Burt Ostot, W. C. Calles, John Forster, F. F. Kelly, J. Roy Smith, Ray Cook, Father John O'Sullivan, L. Morrison, Thomas Forster, Russell Cook, C. A. Romer, L. B. Green, the Rev. T. G. McMinich, T. Gilbert and W. L. The charge against Jenkins was based on a forged check for $20.50, passed upon Roy Jackson, Anaheim merchant.

Charge Is Dismissed
Reported disappearance of the complaining witness caused dismissal of a burglary charge against Alexander Ortiz, when he appeared for trial today, in Superior Judge E. J. Marks' court.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION.

Santa Ana, Calif.,
March 16th, 1926.
Editor Register:—I want to congratulate your paper on the reply sent to the "New York World" regarding our poll on the wet and dry issue.

You should have emphasized the fact that our county, the wealthiest county in the world, has other interests far more profitable and interesting for the welfare of humanity, than to attempt to change what is now a part of the constitution of the United States.

I have spent some time in every state in the union, and I make this statement without fear of contradiction: "No cleaner paper is published than the SANTA ANA REGISTER." Your paper has never measured issues affecting humanity from the dollar and cents standpoint.

Congratulations!
CLEVELAND CHAMP,

YES, HE DRANK LIQUOR, BUT AT DOCTOR'S WORD

The divorce battle between Mrs. Agnes M. Kelley and her husband, D. K. Kelley, of Newport Beach, was being completed today in Superior Judge R. Y. Williams' court, where it opened yesterday.

Mrs. Kelley, represented by Attorney S. B. Kaufman, of Santa Ana, charged her husband with cruelty. Among her accusations was that of intemperance.

Kelley was cross-examined at some length on the point today, when he took the witness stand to tell his own side of the story. He drank liquor, he admitted, but denied that it was for beverage purposes. The liquor was prescribed for him by his physician, he said, while he was recuperating from injuries sustained in an automobile accident. He drank it chiefly in egg-nogs, he said, but admitted, when pressed by Kaufman, that he occasionally took the whiskey raw, when the weather was that way, and he wanted to get warm.

Questioned by the court as to cost of the liquor, Kelley said he paid the doctor $2 for the prescription and the druggist $3.50 for a pint of whiskey.

Mrs. M. Kelley, mother of the defendant, who is a member of the state board of public welfare, having been appointed by the governor, she testified, took the witness stand after her son was excused.

Attorney H. M. Lineman, Los Angeles, represents Kelley in the case.

Two Men Injured When Cars Crash

George W. Kidd and B. H. Linaley, Long Beach men, were injured at 9:30 a. m. today, when the automobile, in which they were riding with J. M. Richardson, 3215 East Ocean avenue, Long Beach, collided with a machine driven by J. D. Lutz, Huntington Beach, at the intersection of the Huntington Beach boulevard and West Seventeenth street.

Neither of the men are thought to have been seriously hurt. They were taken to Long Beach, by passing motorists, for medical attention.

Lutz and Richardson made reports of the accident at the sheriff's office.

SCHOOL RULING GIVEN VARIED TRANSLATIONS

Complicated situations, which, in turn, may result in unforeseen circumstances affecting the legal status of every school district in the county, except that of Santa Ana, are foreshadowed in the various interpretations placed on the opinion handed down a few days ago by Attorney General U. S. Webb, relative to registration for the coming school elections.

According to advices received at the office of County Superintendent R. P. Mitchell, some of the county attorneys, in other counties, concur in the opinion handed down by the attorney general, to effect that only electors, who registered between January 1 and February 24, are eligible to vote in the coming school elections. On the other hand, the law officers of San Diego and Ventura counties agree with the opinion handed down by the district attorney's office of Orange county, permitting the use of the old register.

Supports Attorney General
Heading the list of those who county counsel of Los Angeles county counsel of os Angeles county.

The Los Angeles official, addressing the Monrovia school board, goes on to say: "The legislature doubtless intended to include all elections in this hold-over period until April 1 of re-registration years, but they went so far as to attempt an enumeration of the elections and regular school elections simply are not included in the statute."

Definitely Fixed by Law
"The law provides use of old registrations for general or special municipal elections, bond issue elections and special elections for selection of officers. These school votes might be construed under the latter, but it states 'special' election of officers, and these school elections are regular occurrences, definitely fixed by law."

Pending further developments in the attempt to ascertain what is and what is not the law in the premises, school trustees and school officials are asking themselves what would be the effect, in Orange county, if, eventually, the contention of the district attorney is turned down by the courts.

Planned As Surprise Was Pretty Shower For Bride-elect

ST. PATRICK bridge party given last night at the Minor Cox home, 422 Linwood street, by Mrs. Cox and Miss Kathleen Trago, resolved itself into a delightful surprise for Miss Anna Grace McElree who discovered that she was guest of honor at a gift shower.

The pretty young honoree is soon to become the bride of Newton Richards, young architect of Los Angeles and son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy G. Richards of Orange. Her betrothal was announced in mid-January co-incidental with the announcement of Miss Trago's engagement to Paul Wallace.

The third in the principals of last night's party, Mrs. Cox, is a bride of less than a year and was formerly Miss Alice Mather.

The lively session of bridge resulted in victory for Miss Louise Campbell who received an attractive icee set in crystal. Second prize of a bridge score set was awarded Miss Miriam Baird while a small bottle of Quaker Fleur perfume consoled Mrs. Ed. Ward. When the prizes were distributed, the surprise feature of the evening was disclosed, for Miss McElree was led to an adjoining room and presented with the collection of lovely gifts there displayed.

Arrangement of the card tables in attractive fashion for the serving of delectable refreshments was the final event of a happy evening shared by the hostesses, Mrs. Cox and Miss Trago, their honoree, Miss McElree, Mrs. J. Riley Huber, Mrs. Hugh Haley, Mrs. Fred Hobbs, Mrs. Ed. Ward, Mrs. Ray Crenshaw, Mrs. Jack Remberg, Mrs. Robert Jeffrey, Miss Glenna-Jean Hill, Miss Katherine Buxton, Miss Miriam Baird, Miss Jimmie Flagg, Miss Isabel Wylie, Miss Ethel Smallwood, Miss Wilma Silver and Miss Louise Campbell.

Music Teachers form County Organization

Effecting a splendid organization, representative music teachers of Orange county are banded together as an association following Monday night's meeting in the Earl Fraser studio in the Greenleaf building. Each community of the county was represented and the meeting was a most enthusiastic one with Ollinae Enlow Matthews occupying the chair for the business session.

In the election staged, Phyllis Lucy Keyes of Orange, was selected as president, Harold Wahlberg of Fullerton, vice-president; Carolyn Haughton of this city, treasurer and Mrs. Jay C. Hamill, also of this city, as secretary. The society will function under the aim of arousing co-operation and interest among the members, and bringing uplift to the county and community. The association, patterned along the line of the one which flourished a year or so ago, will have state and national association affiliations. It will meet at stated intervals for study and program and is expected to promote good fellowship as well as good music, and to aid in furthering the cause of American music and American composers.

Leon Eckles of this city has been named as head of the program committee. All vocal and instrumental teachers in the county are urged to align themselves with the members in planning programs and study. The next meeting will be March 28 at Mr. Fraser's studio.

Husbands Are Honored By P. E. O. Members at Lively Dinner

NE could scarcely conceive a more beautiful setting for a party than the Clarence Crookshank home on Lemon Heights where members of Chapter A. B. of P. E. O. entertained their husbands Monday night at a dinner and social evening.

Merrymakers to the number of fifty were grouped at small tables for the enjoyment of a most appetizing dinner. Each table bore a green taper in its crystal candlestick, with the added adornment of a fluffy tulle bow. Other decorative details harmonized in color, expressing the spirit of St. Patrick. Even the individual nut cups were small Irish top-hats.

Mrs. Carl Strock, Mrs. Emrys D. White, Mrs. O. H. Barr and Mrs. W. L. Grubb formed the committee responsible for the planning of the menu.

Dining was followed by a brief entertainment program with Ronald Crookshank, young son of the home, playing a group of violin numbers with expression and charm, and Raymond Miles offering a delightful song group. Alan Revill served as accompanist for each artist.

Mrs. F. C. Rowland and Mrs. Richard Emison were responsible for the pleasant interval as they were for the subsequent amusement feature, a lively session of Keeno for which the players were grouped around card tables. Each round was followed by the winner at each table drawing a mysterious package from an assortment offered for selection. The gifts were of the famous "white elephant" variety, and so varying were the fortunes of the players that virtually each one received a prize ere the evening came to a close.

Enjoying the gay affair with the chapter members and their husbands, were two out-of-town guests, Mrs. Galloway, of Wahoo, Nebr., mother of Mrs. Charles Swanson and a house-guest in the Swanson home, and Mrs. G. R. Featherly of Dillon, Mont., a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Emrys D. White.

Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. Walter N. Prince of 725 South Ross street have wedded twenty years, but were not planning to celebrate the occasion. However, members of the family had made delightful plans, and in response to a telephone call at dinner time, on the anniversary date Mr. and Mrs. Prince went to the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Vandermaast, 425 South Birch street, where they found a happy guest group, a beautifully decorated table and a delectable six-course dinner, waiting their arrival.

The hostesses were Mrs. Asa Vandermaast, Mrs. Walter Vandermaast, Mrs. Murray Vandermaast and Mrs. J. W. McConnell, and besides these, and the honored couple, plates were placed for the husbands of the hostesses and for Herbert McConnell, Newell Vandermaast, Mrs. Emma Lyday, Mrs. Douglass, and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Caulk.

A St. Patrick motif was artistically expressed in the appointments. A golden bowl in the center of the table held ferns and white flowers, garlands of greenery adding to the effect. Shamrock cookies and shamrock place favors were used and as this was the china anniversary, the honored guests found gifts of old-fashioned cups and saucers at their places.

The final surprise came after the dinner had been enjoyed, when many beautiful presents were brought in and hosts of good wishes showered upon the bearded couple. The evening hours were passed with social conversation.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Members of the Young Married People's Bible class of the First Baptist church celebrated their monthly social by having a St. Patrick party Monday evening. The church parlors were decorated with large green and white bouquets of orange blossoms and foliage which filled the rooms with delicate fragrance.

After a short business session, the president turned the meeting over to Mrs. Ray C. Boyd, social chairman for the evening. Mrs. Harvey A. Kern sang a number of Irish songs, and there was an Irish potato hunt that caused much excitement and hilarity.

James Lauri as auctioneer sold many peculiar packages to the willing crowd which paid for them with shamrock money. Dainty refreshments of green fruit Jello, shamrock cookies, candies and punch were served 'midst the telling of many Irish jokes.

Those present were Dr. and Mrs. Otto S. Russell, the Rev. and Mrs. Harry A. Kern sang a number of the Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Burnett, C. E. Pollins, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevens and children, Grace, Evelyn and Robert; Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Paquette, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hazen, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Congregational.

Members of the four sections of the Congregational Missionary society held a silver offering tea one afternoon last week at the beautiful country home of Mrs. A. J. Crookshank in Tustin. Eighty women participated in the informal afternoon and enjoyed the lovely grounds of the home. The committee in charge served tea and cake during the afternoon and the silver offering amounted to $20, which will be used in the good work of the society.

Quill Pen Club Has Entertaining Program

An excellent paper on the technique of short story writing, held the keen interest of the Quill Pen club, a group of literary folk gathered Monday night to enjoy the hospitality of the Frank J. Was home on Orange avenue and hear the paper prepared by their hostess.

In addition, the evening offered three manuscripts for reading and criticism. It was decided to draw four names each meeting, the four so selected, to produce a manuscript each, for the next evening's entertainment. Also each meeting hereafter will feature roll-call answerable with events of current interest.

Arriving guests were greeted Monday night by Mrs. Was and the club's leader, Mrs. Joseph Vau, attired in St. Patrick costume. Each newcomer was required to give an Irish quotation or anecdote. A social period followed the program, and Mrs. Was served fruitade and delectable little shamrock cakes.

Those present were the hostess and the leader, Mrs. Was and Mrs. Vau, Mrs. E. E. Boething, Mrs. Fred Conover, Mrs. Earl Morris, Mrs. Blanche Brown, (welcomed after an extended absence) Mrs. Clara Cushman, Mrs. Herman Reuter, Mrs. N. E. Wells, Mrs. J. F. Adams, Mrs. Ida Marx, Miss Verna Wells and Miss Gladys Campbell.

Blind to Color

Color blindness is reported to be more common among men than women. Tests showed that four per cent of men cannot tell the difference between one color and another.

For color blind eyes that are sensitive to light, we have a special invisibly tinted lens that shuts out the confusing glare and makes true colors more distinct.

Bride-elect Carries Off Honors When 500 Is Played

UCH a merry evening was enjoyed last night by a group of congenial friends, gathered at the invitation of Mrs. E. E. Christensen to play 500 at a gay little St. Patrick party.

The youthful matron is a bride of perhaps a year, and was the former Miss Mildred White. Her party at 1608 Hickory street, was all in green and white, with St. Patrick emblems very much in evidence. When the green tally cards were gathered at the close of the series, and scores totaled, the fact that Miss Julia Linsenbard took first honors occasioned no surprise, as Miss Linsenbard is the chief object of interest among her friends because of her recently announced betrothal to Henry Egbert. Mrs. Christensen's thoughtfulness in arranging that first honors should go to her, was but the first of many courtesies which her friends are planning to extend her.

The trophy was a daintily embroidered apron, while low prize of a frilly little handkerchief was presented to Mrs. Russell Hardcastle. While the guests were admiring the prize awards, Mrs. Christensen was arranging her tables with white linens and centering them with posies in readiness for serving chicken en pate, potato chips, cheese sandwiches, olives and coffee.

Those enjoying the evening were Mrs. Harry Griffith, Mrs. Joe Danziger, Mrs. Russell Hardcastle, Mrs. Burton Wright, the Misses Julia Linsenbard, Gertrude Linsenbard, Agnes Lieberman, Winifred Iman, Della Iman, Pearl Christensen and the hostess, Mrs. Christensen.

Birthday Party Has Surprise Features

Highly successful, beyond a doubt was the birthday surprise which Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Spangh and Dale Cook arranged recently to honor Mrs. Lydia A. Hayes of 216 North Ross street, and which also surprised her daughter, Miss Pearl Hayes.

Five hundred was the entertainment feature introduced and high awards were captured by Mrs. George Shoebright and W. H. Hodgman. However Mrs. E. Butler and Dale Cook were just as beaming over the gifts they received as consolation.

Cards were followed by a delightful interval during which sandwiches, olives and coffee were followed by the serving of two delicious big cakes. On one, (the gift of Mrs. Ruth Riley) were a few gleaming candles, the number paying a compliment to the picture of perennial youth offered by the honoree, Mrs. Hayes, as she received and graciously acknowledged the many handsome gifts showered on her.

Enjoying the happy evening with Mrs. Hayes and Miss Hayes were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Spangh and daughter, Miss Patsy, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hodgman and son, "J. D.," Mr. and Mrs. George Shoebright, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Klein, Mrs. Florence Hawkins, Mrs. Ruth Riley, Mrs. E. Butler, Murray Young of San Diego, and Dale Cook.

Young Matrons Meet For Afternoon of Needlework

RELAND'S patron saint and his birthday offered the decorative theme of an afternoon of needlework and friendly chat which a group of young matrons enjoyed as guests of Mrs. E. G. Holmes Jr. at her home, 2315

Bush street. One of the chief sources of interest for the guests was the presence of a group of three charming children, Tiny Joy Archer and two small laddies "Pat" Mercer and his wee brother Jimmie. Their baby ways brightened the interval of friendly chat over bits of embroidery.

At the tea hour Mrs. Holmes asked her guests to the dining-room where a deep crystal basket of graceful spire centered the attractive table and stressed the St. Patrick emerald green. This was repeated in a perfection salad with delectable little hot rolls, and in the mints which followed the second course of gingerbread with whipped cream and coffee.

Mrs. Holmes' guests included Mesdames Lester Archer, Robert McCaggerty, A. M. Blanding, Arthur Worden, Orson Hunter, Burton Rawley, Harry Johnston, Ira Mercer and Miss Ferns Beiseker.

Chicken Dinner for Birthday Celebrant

The birthday of E. R. Curtis, 222 South Main street, and that of St. Patrick were celebrated Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Al Burns of Laguna Beach. The method of celebration was a chicken dinner at which green nutcrackers and place cards were used. The birthday cake had green candles and the ice cream was garnished with shamrocks.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Warner, Miss Fay Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Al Burns, Miss Vivian Mitchell, Miss Valerie Sutton, Miss Marjorie Burns, Curtis Burns and Thomas Watts.

FREE STATE IS GETTING ON TO FIRM FOOTING

BERLIN, March 17.—The economic situation in Ireland still is dominated by political issues. The three-cornered pact of London at the close of last year has cleared up some outstanding points in the country's external relations much sooner than expected, but it has opened up new avenues of thought and action that are being explored both north and south of the artificially created Ulster frontier.

A recent meeting of the ministers of agriculture in the two states is likely to be followed by similar conferences between northern and southern ministers and officials to discuss matters on which the two governments may be able to co-operate for their mutual advancement. These conferences will be confined to economic and kindred subjects. There is no indication as yet of any approach toward co-operation in the sphere of politics. On the contrary, the creation of a separate line of court for northern lawyers since the London pact was signed points toward separation rather than union in politics.

The economic position in Ireland is not satisfactory. Decline of the shipping and linen industries and operation of the Free State tariff laws have left the industrial areas in the north with an enormous number of unemployed workers, and prospects of trade revival there are not good. Were Belfast inside the Irish, instead of the British, system, her unemployed workers and factories would undoubtedly derive advantage from the Irish protective duties.

She has the tradition of industry, the trained workers and the technical equipment which would enable her to seize the new markets in Ireland for Irish-made goods. But she is cut off by being outside the Free State, and her main hope is a revival of her export trade in ships and linen.

Fundamentally the economic position of the Free State is better. The export trade of the south has been chiefly in cattle, agricultural products, stout, whiskey and biscuits. The export trade in whiskey has suffered severely through the loss of the American market, but the brewing industry never was so prosperous as at present, and the export trade in Dublin-made biscuits is holding its own.

Agriculture is feeling the effects of the trade depression in Britain and the increasing supplies of Canadian cattle to the British market. Imports and exports fell considerably last year, and the latest returns issued by the Free State government show that the adverse trade balance was practically the same for the smaller turnover as it was for the larger turnover of 1924. It was 17,500,000 pounds.

The internal trade also is unsatisfactory. The governor of the Bank of Ireland at the recent meeting of shareholders gave the following clearance figures for the Dublin banks:

Year	Pounds
1923	$17,000,000
1924	279,000,000
1925	263,000,000

These figures give some indication of the state of trade generally. The fall should be really taken as an index of the decrease of the spending capacity of the country, which has caused a shrinkage in internal trade and a consequent decrease in the circulation of money.

The most important event in Ireland at the moment is the Ard-Fheis, or congress of the Sinn Fein organization, in Dublin, March 9, to consider entering the Free State parliament if the oath of allegiance is not imposed on the republican Deputies. There is a sharp conflict on this issue.

Some of the republican leaders, including De Valera, see no difficulty in principle in entering the Free State parliament if the oath were not imposed. Others refuse to recognize the Free State with or without the oath. The issue appears to be in doubt, but if the Ard-Fheis indorses the De Valera policy and if the republican deputies take their seats in the dail, the whole position in Ireland will undergo a change. Such action in the south may be followed by similar action in the north, thus providing both parliaments with real oppositions instead of the nominal oppositions of the present. The effect on the public mind of such a change would be incalculable.

Meantime, a committee appointed

THERE is now a new way in woman's hygiene. A way efficient and exquisite that ends the uncertainty of old-time "sanitary pads." It is called "KOTEX." Eight in every 10 better-class women have adopted it.

by the Free State government is at work revising the constitution, and the government and dail are showing increasing independence of England by the adoption of a separate coinage, opposition to interference of the British privy council in internal Irish affairs and in other ways. This swing away from London will probably influence the minds of some of the delegates to the Sinn Fein Ard-Fheis in favor of the new policy.

SUNDAY CHURCH CONCERTS PLAN OF ORCHESTRA

Plans have been completed by the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra for a series of sacred concerts, to be held on Sunday afternoons in the various churches of the city, it was announced today by D. C. Clanton, director of the orchestra. The first concert will be given in the First Congregational church at 3 p. m. Sunday.

The concerts will be free and have been arranged to give lovers of string instrument music an opportunity to hear the splendid organization in sacred concert numbers. Pointing out that 35 qualified musicians compose the orchestra, Clanton said that the programs would be made up of the best symphonic music, including sacred numbers, in full harmony with church and Sunday requirements.

The symphony orchestra has been a very active organization since its initial concert, given a year ago as part of the program presented under the auspices of the Santa Ana Music and Drama association. The members have purchased their own instruments and have paid their director a small salary out of their own pockets. Constant rehearsals have been maintained and the orchestra never was in better training than at the present time, according to Clanton.

It is declared that with Elwood Bear as concert master, the orchestra has one of the best violinists in Southern California. Other members of the orchestra are Leon Eckles, Mrs. Walter Spicer, Georgia Walton, Hale Barker, Roland Crookshank, Pearl Winters, Loren Cannon, Helen Lutz, James Workman, Ferdinand Pascal, Jerome Bauer, Merrill Bauer, W. G. Axworthy, Eddie Burns, Elmer Faulkner, W. C. Brakeman, V. C. Shippee, D. Ferris, Walter Wray, Ray Hutchinson, Irving German, Joseph Paul, G. C. Furtch, Dolph Kelsey, Lillian Confer, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Briggs and Melvin Watson.

THOROUGHFARE IN FULLERTON TO BE WIDENED

FULLERTON, March 17.—One of the most important discussions carried on by the board of trustees last night was relative to the proposed extension of the outfall sewer line. As Fullerton is one of the cities that has connections with the sewer line, the trustees heard a detailed report of the project, which dealt with the cost of construction, cost of operation and other important phases of the proposition. No definite action was taken by the board, but important problems of the project are to be looked into at once.

A petition was read to the trustees regarding objections to the ordinance which pertains to sign placement. This petition was sponsored by a representative of the Foster and Kleiser company, and was signed by the leading business men of Fullerton. The petition asked the trustees to change the ordinance in order that local business men may have signs placed on vacant territory in the business district. The proposition was referred to the town and street committees.

Definite action has finally been taken by the trustees regarding the widening of Valencia avenue, formerly Starbuck road. Final action was taken last night, when it was decided by a 4 to 1 vote to widen the avenue to 60 feet from Highland avenue to Magnolia.

A committee was appointed to acquire information as to the possibilities of establishing a uniform building code for Fullerton. Information will be obtained from the Orange County Builders' exchange, as well as from other sources.

Permission was granted to H. J. Effer, who is a representative for a factory putting out a new game, called "Table Golf," to establish and operate a salesroom in the California hotel.

Ordinance No. 343, regarding boulevard stops and buttons at intersections in the business district, was adopted by the trustees.

The board decided to exert all possible effort in co-operating with the new advertising board of the chamber of commerce, which has been organized to advertise Fullerton. Mayor Crooke was appointed to the advertising board as a representative of the city trustees.

WILL IN TRUMPET
SANTA CRUZ, Calif., March 17.—A missing will, disposing of a home and several lots, possessed by the late George Wallace, who died last October, was discovered recently when a daughter picked up the old trumpet of her aged father. She heard a slight rattle and took out a piece of paper dated Oct. 8, 1925, telling of a will giving her the entire estate.

ROTARY HEARS EDISON MAN IN PEACE SPEECH

That it is each individual's duty to consciously strive to do his part—an effective part—in solving the world's greatest problem, that of maintenance of peace, was declared yesterday in an address before the Santa Ana Rotary club by Benjamin P. Pearson, of Los Angeles, head of the industrial relations department of the Southern California Edison company.

Pearson recently spent a year in Europe studying industrial relations. He said yesterday that it is hard for those living in peaceful, prosperous California to realize that all Europe is living under a stress and strain that may reach a breaking point at any time.

"The masses," said he, "are in a restless condition. The time when they were content to be ruled by another class has gone by. They are milling around, and the trend is toward breaking into control. The danger, of course, is that, in attaining control, those untrained for leadership may do unwise things."

"You may say that what's going on in Europe is no concern of ours. In that you are wrong, for it is impossible for this country or any other country to successfully maintain an attitude of majestic isolation. Modern enterprise and invention have brought the farthest corners of the earth close together. It is your job and my job to study the situations that arise today, and to do our part in solving the problems of the day."

The chairman of yesterday's meeting was William L. Deimling, district manager of the Edison company. Lester Gillett, county manager for the Sperry Flour company, was received into membership by the Rotary club.

The speaker at next week's meeting of the club will be State Railroad Commissioner L. O. Whittell.

Y. M. C. A. STUDY CLASSES WILL CLOSE TONIGHT

Tonight brings the close of the winter term in salesmanship, taught by Dick Carlson, at the Y. M. C. A. A large class has followed the course through its 10 weeks. Carlson's lecture tonight will be on "Charting Your Life," in which he will summarize the work of the term and give valuable suggestions for further study.

The course in memory training, which has been given to the same class by R. C. Smedley, also will be completed tonight. The work will start, as usual, at 7:30, with a final study in memory training, together with a demonstration by the class, in which Smedley declares that he expects every student to be able to take a list of 50 words and memorize them within a few seconds.

The memory training period ends at 8 o'clock, at which time Carlson will deliver his closing lecture.

Because of the unusual interest in tonight's meeting a limited number of visitors may be admitted. The salesmanship course is the third course which Carlson has conducted at the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. during the last 15 months. About 100 men and women have been enrolled in these classes. The memory training course is the third which Smedley has conducted, his total enrollment also being near the 100 mark.

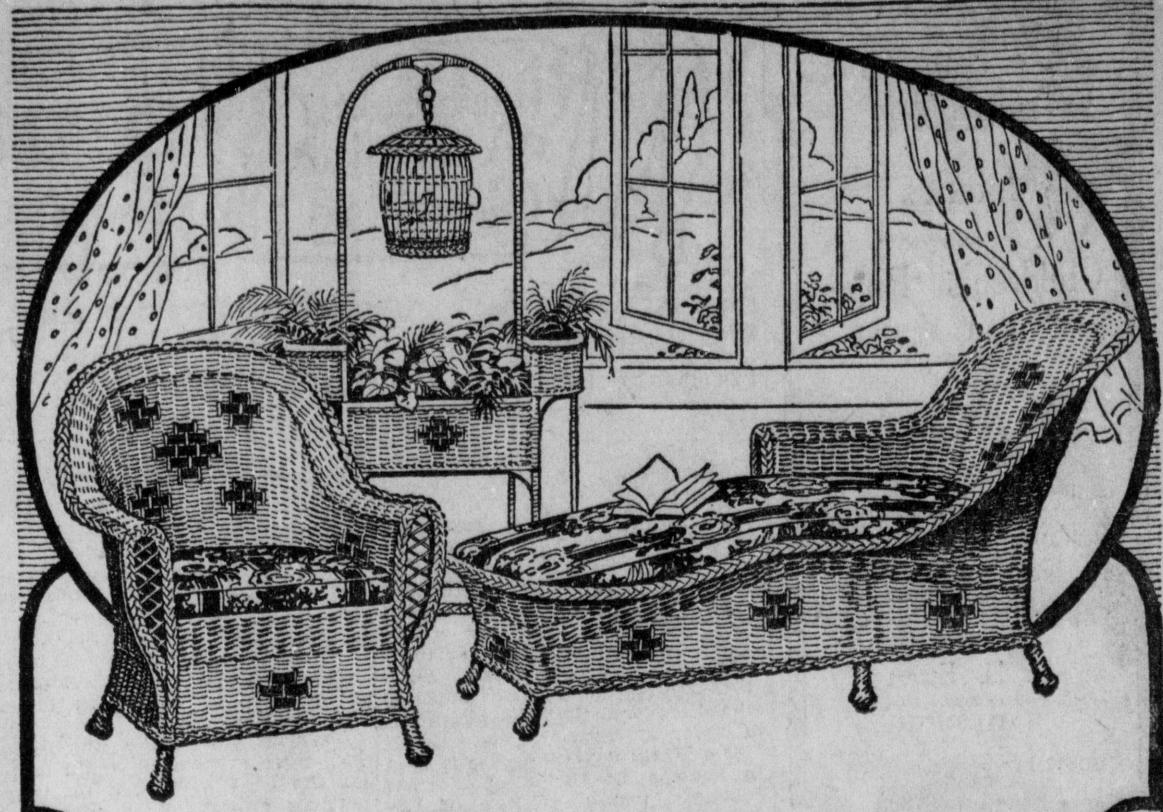

Smedley declares that in response to various inquiries about the memory training, he may arrange to give one more short course this spring, starting after Easter and continuing for six lessons. Interested persons are asked to communicate with him.

Concrete is the aristocrat of pavements

News from Los Angeles About Concrete Streets

Los Angeles now has more concrete streets than any other city in the country—a total of over 220 miles. And they are directly linked with several thousand miles of concrete roads in California, thus forming an extension of one of the most famous highway systems in the world.

Motor traffic from every section of the state flows along these sturdy streets all day and far into the night. This includes countless automobiles, huge trucks loaded to capacity, and buses built like Pullmans.

Only streets paved as the knowledge and experience of the modern highway builder directs could long withstand this punishment. The concrete streets of Los Angeles are doing so year after year.

They are also meeting the stern demand of skid-free safety—even on the steepest grades.

And concrete is the preferred pavement in the residential sections, as well as in the industrial. For its attractive, light gray color makes it the finest looking pavement money can buy, it is always clean and neat, and it always has a true, even surface.

These are some of the reasons why Los Angeles and hundreds of other alert cities are laying concrete streets, and will lay more.

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

NATURE BOOKS ON SHELVES IN CITY LIBRARY

Almost every morning, now, one can stand on his back door step and see, perched in the peach tree, a fat robin. Some times there are other birds, brown, grey or black, digging up the radishes that were planted so carefully earlier in the year, as they tug at a worm that seems to reach clear through the earth.

If he who sees his garden despoiled by the small creatures of the air wishes to inquire into the reason for their brazen activities, he need only go to the city library, where, on the small table, near the door, is a number of books on the habits of birds.

There is one book, "The Human Side of Birds," by Royal Dixon, which, perhaps, explains the waste of seeds and the fight for the worms better than any other, according to Miss Jeannette McFadden, city librarian.

There are other books about birds on the table—about the birds that do not come into the city and one's garden, but stay in the high, cool, lonely places and are unknown to most persons. These books are "Birds I Have Known," "Bird Biographies," "A Year in the Wonderland of Birds" and "Field Book of Birds."

Miss McFadden said that she had prepared also, for lovers of wild flowers and, on the table, are a number of books dealing with every phase of wild flower life, even to "Taming the Wildings," by Herbert Durand, which is an extensive treatise on the growing of wild flowers in the home gardens, in which are told the easiest methods to pursue if one wishes to transplant wild flowers.

There are some persons not interested in the growing of wild flowers, but who are interested in their origin and history. For these are the following books: "Mysteries of Flowers," "Nature's Garden," "The Wayside Flowers of Summer," "Wildflowers of California" and "Wild Flowers as They Grow."

Many, who have planted gardens, are giving up hopes of ever getting rid of the over supply of weeds. Among the books on flower life is one entitled, "Manual of Weeds," in which may be found a way of eliminating every known variety of weed.

"After reading these books," Miss McFadden said, "almost anyone should be able to recognize birds and wild flowers and whether they wish the knowledge for pleasure or otherwise, will find the books unusually entertaining."

Stomach Troubles that are Dangerous

(CUT THIS OUT)

Some forms of stomach trouble, if neglected, often lead to dangerous conditions—ulcers or cancers—then, a surgical operation is about the only hope.

For this reason, even the most simple stomach ailments should be given prompt and careful attention. So, don't neglect acid stomach, sourness, gas or bloating! And don't waste time with unknown or unreliable treatments. At the very first signs of distress, go to any good drug store and obtain a few cent's worth of pure Bismarck Magnesia. This special Magnesia Compound is safe and pleasant to take—quickly, almost instantly, effective and does not act as a laxative. Be sure and ask for BISMARKED Magnesia for stomach troubles only.

DEVELOP PLANS OF DRIVE FOR BAND SUPPORT

A joint meeting of the directors and advisory board of the Santa Ana Municipal band was held last night in Ketter's cafe, where plans were developed for an organized campaign, when the proposition of a tax levy, for support of the band, is submitted to the voters along with the bonding propositions for the joint outfall sewer and for parks and playgrounds.

The two groups were confident that voters of the city would approve a levy to give the band the support it deserves because of its high class qualifications.

Informal discussion was had on possible activities of the organization if the tax levy carries and belief was expressed that, in addition to giving summer concerts, the program of the band should be such as to make possible sacred concerts on a number of Sunday afternoons during the winter months.

It was thought that the organization could be used to good advantage in advertising the city by attendance at some of the big annual public gatherings at points outside of Santa Ana.

Directors present were S. W. Holt, H. A. Smith, D. O. Francis, W. A. Harrington, V. C. Shippee, W. R. Clifton, G. C. Furtch, D. C. Clanton and Harry Hanson, the latter being president of the band. Advisory board members were Z. E. West Jr., Clyde C. Downing, Robert Shafer, Robert L. Brown, J. C. Wallace and Horace Fine.

Committees were named as follows:

To discuss, with city council, amount of tax levy—Downing, West, Hanson; poster advertising—Shafer, Brown; publicity—Fine, Downing; transportation on election day—Smith, Furtch, Holt; contact with service clubs and other organizations—Wallace, West, Fine.

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Jack, surname unknown, wrote an affectionate letter to "Dear Auntie."

Jack never will take any prizes in penmanship, but experts at the dead letter office did manage to dope out the "Dear Auntie" part and were able to get the general impression that Nephew Jack was fond of and solicitous concerning her.

Seemingly "Dear Auntie" was in financial straits, so Jack pinned a $5 bill to his letter.

Then he put the whole thing in an envelope and addressed it like this:

The dead letter office has some sharks at making sense out of hard handwriting, but this specimen stumped 'em.

So Jack's uncle, Samuel, will get the former's $5 bill, after it's held for a year, instead of "Dear Auntie." That is to say, it will be turned in to the treasury, as a present from Jack, since there's nothing else to be done with it.

This certainly wasn't what Jack intended, it's hard on "Dear Auntie" and Uncle Samuel could get along without the money. Too bad, all 'round. It can't be helped, though.

Now wouldn't you think folks would be more careful with their mail, especially the kind they put money in? Sure you would. So would the postoffice department. It knows they're not, however.

The dead letter office is averaging an annual turnover just now of 22,000,000 letters and 803,000 packages.

It took $125,000 cash out of last year's orphan mail. It finally found the owners of $70,000 of it, but $55,000 was hopeless and the treasury got it. This doesn't include $3,000,000 in checks, drafts and money orders.

During this same period the dead letter offices "haul in" postage stamps exceeding $12,000, or more than enough to pay a U. S. senator's yearly salary.

And it sold lost packages, left on its hands, for $120,000.

It was only a small fractional part of their value, at that, for they were knocked down at auction for whatever the department could get out of the highest bidders.

The dead letter office is the post office department's court of last resort. It gets only the regular Chinese puzzles.

The easier puzzles are solved right in the post offices where they are mailed or received, in the ordinary way. It's estimated that this class of puzzles run to 200,000,000 annually.

They call 'em "mixes."

The treasury department may be grateful for the money the dead letter office finds, but the post office department, not being allowed to keep it, isn't.

Neither does the post office department enjoy trying to work out Chinese puzzles. It hates it. How would you like trying to work out the one below?

At you can do it, kindly notify the dead letter office. It can't.

CONDITION OF BEACH OFFICER UNCHANGED

The condition of J. A. Porter, city marshal and treasurer of Newport Beach, was unchanged this morning, according to information from the Glendale sanitarium, where Porter lies in a critical condition, as the result of trying to take his own life Sunday.

The actual seriousness of his condition was stressed today, when it was made known that not only is the Newport Beach official suffering from deep slashes in each wrist, inflicted with a penknife, but that he also is suffering from the effects of several bichloride of mercury tablets, taken early Sunday morning.

Porter, it was learned, yesterday, from his friends in Newport Beach, took the poison tablets while in the medical room of the sanitarium for a blood test. It is reported that the city marshal told the attending physician that he had left a pin on a desk in the room and returned to the doctor's office and secured the tablets.

Late Sunday afternoon, Porter again attempted to end his life by slashing his wrists with a penknife, but was seen by small boys passing the hospital grounds and received immediate attention.

FARGO MAN IS FIRM BOOSTER FOR SANTA ANA AND SOUTHLAND

Charles R. Holmes, Retired Business Man from North Dakota, St. Ann's Guest

MORE THAN REPAID FOR STOPPING HERE

Capitalist Is Enthusiastic Over City As Ideal for Tourists, Homeseekers

Santa Ana continues to add new names to its growing list of boosters. The latest addition is that of Charles R. Holmes, a retired business man, of Fargo, N. D. He and his family are registered at St. Ann's Inn, where they have been guests for the last six weeks. James F. Holmes, a brother and former business associate of Charles R. Holmes, is another member of the party.

After having spent a number of winters in Florida, the Fargo capitalist was induced to give Southern California a trial. He admits that he came here with a prejudiced mind, expecting to find that the glowing descriptions contained in California literature were booster stuff—the work of press agents and real estate brokers.

Booster for Santa Ana
Today, after a stay of about five months, he has nothing but praise for Southern California. Moreover, he has become a real booster to Santa Ana.

Like most persons of means, coming to Southern California on pleasure, he made the rounds of the various resorts listed in time tables and travel folders. He visited Santa Barbara, Pasadena, Glendale, Hollywood, Santa Monica, Riverside, Coronado and other fashionable tourist centers. While stopping at San Diego, he met Mrs. W. A. Moore, a prominent New York clubwoman, who urged him to visit Santa Ana and St. Ann's Inn before returning to his home in the middle west.

To quote his own words:
"This lady told me that, if I were looking for a near paradise, a fa-

REPRISAL AGAINST MOVE OF DAIRYMEN TO UPSET COUNTY T. B. ORDINANCE INTIMATED

Threats by dairymen to upset the recently adopted county "tuberculosis" ordinance, on the ground that it is unconstitutional, encountered intimations of reprisal today, as members of the county board of supervisors commented upon the dairymen's contemplated attack.

Having retained Attorneys Clyde A. Payne, of Orange, and James H. Van Law, of the Los Angeles firm, Van Law and Van Law, the group of dairymen opposed to the regulatory ordinance have announced their intention to "take whatever steps are necessary to resist the enforcement of the ordinance and test its constitutionality."

"They will merely get their necks into a noose by doing it. If they knock out the ordinance that requires testing and branding of tubercular cattle, it probably will lead to a situation where the county health department may be compelled to condemn cattle, which would be more severe for the dairymen than the ordinance they object to," observed Supervisor S. H. Finley, of Santa Ana.

Other members of the board joined in deprecating the reported move by dairymen to contest enforcement of the ordinance.

"The only fault I have to find with the ordinance is that it doesn't go as far as I would like to see it," remarked Supervisor William Schumacher, of Buena Park.

Claiming that "fully 90 per cent" of the 180 dairymen in Orange county are strongly against the ordinance in its present form, the statement issued today, on behalf of avowed enemies of the ordinance, included the following:

Not Easy To Do
"Regulating the dairy industry is not one of the easiest things done. Many of the older states, including New York, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, have been at it for a long time. Only within the last 14 years have results been satisfactory to all concerned."

"The dairymen of Orange county are in full accord with any movement looking toward the eradication of tuberculosis in dairy cows; producing milk under the most sanitary conditions possible, and to keep conditions so at all times."

"The new ordinance, as it now stands, is harsh to the dairymen, in that it virtually confiscates his property. It is no added protection to the public in that, under this same ordinance, milk from tubercular cows will be sold to the public for human consumption. It allows 'feeders' certain privileges that could open the way for further spread of the disease."

"Any ordinance that operates to work an undue hardship upon any

And So Irish Cherish Shamrock

Today, Wednesday, March 17, is the day that every Irishman will proudly display a shamrock on his lapel.

We all know they are wearing shamrocks in honor of Ireland's patron saint, St. Patrick—but why shamrock? Here's the story, which has long been told and has long been accepted as true:

When St. Patrick preached Christianity to the pagan Irish, he had difficulty in making them grasp the doctrine of the Trinity—three persons in one God.

Then he inspired to show them a piece of shamrock, or trefoil, with its three leaves on one stalk. That simple illustration from nature aided, and from that time—the beginning of the fifth century—the shamrock became something to be worn in honor of St. Patrick. It has taken its place with other national emblems.

NEW VOLUMES ARE ADDED TO CITY LIBRARY

Variety of Recent Books Made Available for Reading by Santa Ana Folk

Books written by adventurers of their journeys into strange lands, books written by those who have observed the strange adventures of others, books dealing with the more serious problems of today's civilization, all of them declared to be intensely interesting, are to be found among the new books just received at the city library.

The names of these books and a brief outline of their contents follow:

"Argonauts of the South," Captain Frank Hurley—The author, an official photographer, accompanied both Sir Ernest Shackleton and Sir Douglas Mawson on their Antarctic expeditions. This book is an authentic record of adventure, wonderfully illustrated with photographs.

"Edith Wharton," R. M. Lovett—Well rounded study covering the essential facts in her literary history and analyzing the social and moral conceptions which underlie her philosophy.

Book on Shakespearean Disputes
"Falstaff and Other Shakespearean Topics," A. H. Tolman—Takes up some interesting disputed questions and deals with each subject in a way that will stimulate every lover of Shakespeare. Explains why Lord Bacon was peculiarly unfitted to write these plays.

"Gain of Personality," W. C. Loosmore—Author states plainly the values of personality in business and social life. His object is to guide one who is conscious of some lack and would like to bring to bear upon life such a measure of personality as would insure a reasonable amount of happiness and success.

"Isabella Stewart Gardner and Fenway Court," Morris Carter—The author was appointed by Mrs. Gardner as permanent director of Fenway court. Book is written from intimate personal recollections. Very interesting narrative of a brilliant woman.

INTERESTING CHARACTERIZATIONS IN "PASSING OF THE THIRD FLOOR BACK"

One of the interesting characterizations in tonight's opening performance of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," current offering of Santa Ana Community Players, in the Ebell auditorium, will be Harry Brackett, veteran Community Player, as Japa Samuels, arrogant rogue in the opening scenes of the play. With Brackett are shown, in the picture, James Duggan, as Harry Larkom, Japa's satellite, and Clarissa M. Lansdown, as 'Stasia, the little slave, whose English accent is going to delight every one, even though she does have to assume the Cockney dialect with it and carefully drop her "aitches" and turn all her long a's into i's.

CHIEF ASSERTS CHECK KITING IS PROFESSION

Declaring that check kiting is a profession and stressing the point that men and women who pass fictitious paper make a study of the alleged art, Claude Rogers, chief of police, in an address, yesterday, at the meeting of the Exchange club, urged merchants to be careful in cashing checks passed to them by strangers.

"Unless he knows, personally, the responsibility of a person presenting a check, no merchant should cash a check without making an investigation as to the validity of the piece of paper," the chief said.

He recounted a number of instances of local business men cashing spurious paper offered by "paper hangers," as check kiters are called by the police.

"If merchants were a little more careful in handling the paper of strangers, they would prevent many operators putting over their checks and such action would be effective in reducing the tremendous losses sustained through cashing of bad checks," Rogers commented, adding that "bogus check artists do not get by with bankers."

The police chief said that the Santa Ana department had been instrumental in placing, behind bars, men and women of national reputation as check kiters.

Exchanges were treated to a double bill of entertainment, due to a mixup in program chairmen, two

Players in Readiness for Initial Performance Of Production

"We are all in readiness for the rise of the curtain in the Ebell auditorium, tonight, on the initial performance of 'The Passing of the Third Floor Back,'" today declared Miss Eloise Sterling, director of Santa Ana Community Players, in their current attraction, the third of the season's series of plays.

Last night was the final rehearsal in the auditorium and the director found each individual actor in readiness to assume his role at tonight's opening. Costumes were quite as much in readiness as were their wearers, and some of them were so grotesque as to cause even seasoned actors to forget their cues and laugh immoderately.

Probably no one presentation of a play is such a test of ability and restraint as the dress rehearsal, according to the director. Not even the first night, with its attendant uncertainty as to how the play is going over. For the dress rehearsal is supposed to offer as finished a performance as any succeeding offering. Actors are supposed to be letter-perfect in their lines. Action must be spontaneous and costumes complete. But the response of an audience is lacking. Playing to rows of empty chairs is far different from playing to rows of interested and sympathetic auditors.

But the dress rehearsal for "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" met every requirement of the director, a fact which the cast attributes to the inspiration of the play itself. "With such a character as that of 'The Passer-By' to offer inspiration, the cast develops a sympathy and an enthusiasm that carries the play to its final success," declared Miss Sterling. And the members of the cast agreed with her that a quality of enthusiasm was engendered by the theme and spirit of the play that added them individually and collectively, in enacting their roles.

The play will open tonight and continue for the remainder of the week. Tickets are on sale in the Santa Ana Bookstore.

HOFF BREAKS PAIR OF WORLD RECORDS

NEW YORK, March 17.—Charley Hoff, Norway's principal athletic exponent, achieved his greatest track success last night when he smashed two world's indoor records and won the all-around indoor championship with a remarkable exhibition of stamina and skill.

The Norwegian, competing at the Garden in the annual Knights of Columbus games, cleared 23 feet, 7 1/2 inches in the running broad jump and set another record when he pole vaulted 13 feet 7 inches.

The septathlon event was marred because Harold Osborne, one of the three contestants, was forced to retire after the fourth event with a strained tendon, and Emerson Norton was disqualified in the hurdles. However, Hoff's total of 585.3 points was larger than any figure Norton and Osborne could have hoped to amass.

ELECTION WILL BE FEATURE OF P.-T. A. MEET

Election of district officers, consideration of amendments to the present constitution and by-laws, presentation of annual reports of district officers, committee chairmen, and local presidents, are outstanding features of the program prepared for the annual district convention of fourth (Orange county) district, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, to be held April 10, at Laguna Beach.

Program arrangements were completed at an executive board meeting held last Saturday in Anaheim, it was announced.

Interest in Annual Election.

According to Mrs. Mary B. Robertson, chairman of the publicity committee, interest centers about the election of district officers. In addition to Mrs. J. Edmund Snow, Santa Ana, district president, the following named officers will go out of office this year: Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, Garden Grove, second vice president; Mrs. F. T. Preble, Tustin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. W. Hoy, Santa Ana, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Schweinfest, Anaheim, financial secretary; Mrs. E. G. Hasson, Huntington Beach, treasurer; Mrs. S. W. Stanley, Tustin, auditor; Mrs. George R. Goetsch, Orange, historian, and Mrs. Roy S. Horton, Santa Ana, parliamentarian.

Ways and means for raising funds for general district work, including maintenance of scholarship fund and distribution of free milk to undernourished children, are among matters to be discussed at the coming district convention.

Booths at Show and Fair.

In line with these plans, the executive board has already made arrangements to have booths at the Anaheim Orange show and the annual county fair. Coupled with these announcements, it was intimated, that the Santa Ana city federation is seriously considering the advisability of presenting a request for participation in the Santa Ana Community Chest. In Los Angeles and other communities, it was learned, the P.-T. A. is a participant of the chest, using the quota for free milk distribution among needy school children and for similar purposes.

Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, Garden Grove, now holding the office of second vice president, is the choice of the nominating committee for district president. She has been identified with P.-T. A. work for a number of years, having served on various state, district and special committees.

J. R. HUNT NAMED AS NEW MANAGER

No Difficulty Anticipated In Production, Following Sale of 400 Memberships

By A. M. STANLEY, County Fair Secretary

According to the practices employed by the modern news writers, the proper way to handle a news story is to first tell 'em what you're going to tell 'em, tell 'em, and then tell 'em what you've told them.

Following that practice, we would be forced to write much, should we attempt to tell all the things that have occurred in connection with the reorganization and plans for the future Orange county fairs.

Following the close of the last fair, it was determined that a more business like and permanent organization should be developed to take the place of the committee formation that had been conducting the fairs in the past in Orange county. To this end, a meeting was called of the committee, which conducted the last fair and, at this meeting, directors of a contemplated and desired fair organization were elected. Candidates had been interviewed previous to the meeting by the presidents of both the fair and the farm bureau, working jointly, in order to secure the names of persons who would be willing to assume the obligations.

The business of the former show was cleaned up and then attention was given to the matter of incorporation. "Orange County Fair corporation" was adopted as the name of the new organization and Attorney D. C. Wetlin drew up the articles of incorporation accordingly.

Already In Existence

Preparations were made to issue memberships in the new association and to sell stock, but all were surprised to learn that such an organization already was in existence. Such an organization was incorporated in 1890, and further investigation revealed that in 1934, a second organization, known as the "Orange County Fair association," "Orange County Fair association," had been incorporated. We were required to seek a new name. Some one suggested "Orange County Community Fair, Inc." with the idea of showing, in the very name, that this was a whole county enterprise.

No. 4 of a Series: DIXON PUMP WORKS, Santa Ana

Dixon Pumps, a True Santa Ana Product

Sixteen years ago, R. T. Dixon bought a little repair shop at Third and Sycamore streets and started on the road to Fame and Fortune repairing irrigation pumps. He has won both—and yet figures he has just made a good start.

Because Dixon is an inventor, practical, ambitious—a genuine "live wire." The little repair shop was only a means of studying irrigation methods and pump needs. His inventive genius went to work building turbine pumps in the field of performance. Dixon's pumps are Dixon's inventions—all his own patents.

Dixon builds irrigation pumps, city deep-well water pumps, and sub-division pressure pumps. Practically all castings are made in the Dixon foundry; even the electric motors are made here, built into the pump heads, only the rotor and stator being imported.

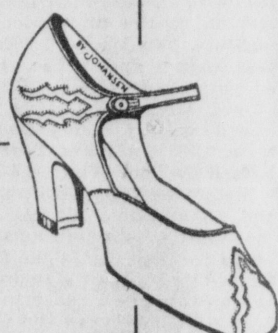

"Dixon's Pump Makes Water Hump" in Canada, Japan, Mexico and all over the United States; 90% of Dixon's pumps are shipped out of Orange County.

Two crews are at work constantly in the San Joaquin Valley, sometimes three crews. 30 to 58 men are employed locally; all living here. Dixon distributes to his men between $750 and $800 weekly. The Dixon plant at Fifth and Garnsey is worth about $150,000. New and larger quarters will soon be established on other property owned by him.

Dixon has invested the profits of his business in Santa Ana real estate and in his plant. Why shouldn't he, he asks—both are growing, both have a glorious future—and Dixon has only just "started" on the road to Fame and Fortune.

There are lots of Dixons in Santa Ana—Are you one?

NOTE: One of a series published every Wednesday "so that the people may know" and understand Vanderast's enthusiasm in Santa Ana's great future.

OPPOSITION TO T. B. ORDINANCE BEING VOICED

class and, in addition, fails to remedy or improve the condition toward which it is directed, is unconstitutional.

"All in all, the new ordinance seems to have whitewashed the whole issue without accomplishing any real good. A similar ordinance recently enacted in adjoining counties is reported as being very unsatisfactory.

"The dairymen are backing their aversion to the ordinance in its present form with their hard-earned cash, having banded together to take whatever steps are necessary to resist the enforcement of and test the constitutionality of the ordinance."

The dairymen's statement was called to the attention of Supervisor Willard Smith, of Villa Park, who made reply to it.

"To begin with," said Smith, "the ordinance is only intended as a start in the right direction toward stamping out tuberculosis. Nobody ever claimed that it instantly would produce a complete, 100 per cent cleanup. Perhaps, if we made it severe enough, it would do so."

"Right and Proper"

"As to the claim that the ordinance is confiscatory, I can't see that. Requiring a test of cows and the mark 'T' upon cows found to be reactors, it is true that the brand will reduce the value of that cow. That is right and proper. It is a protection to anyone who might purchase that cow and then find that, when the cow was butchered, the meat was unfit for consumption and must be condemned."

"I contend that the ordinance does remedy and improve the situation in the dairy industry, although it does not completely cure it.

"As to organized opposition to the ordinance among the dairymen, the only organization I know of in that industry is the dairy branch of the county farm bureau. That group voted in favor of the ordinance, before it even was presented to the supervisors. We are informed that the vote was unanimous with the exception of one member, who did not vote, not being directly connected with dairying."

like a radio set. We must be properly equipped and adjusted all the time; otherwise our apparatus works poorly and all we hear is static. Here are the seven helpful rules to observe:

"1. Keep your instrument properly set up. Stand upright, with your chin in, your chest out and up and your stomach in.

"2. Keep your battery working well. Take care of your heart. Don't let it get short circuited by rheumatism or any other infection.

"3. Don't shut yourself in an air-tight cabinet. Tune in with the oxygen outdoors. Keep your windows open.

"4. Spread out your antennae. Swing your arms and legs in the air every day.

"5. Keep your loud speaker clean. Use a tooth brush at least twice a day and go at least once a year to your dentist.

"6. Keep your tubes in order. Don't abuse your digestive tract or let it get clogged up. Eat wisely. Drink plenty of water.

"7. Finally, see that your instrument is given an all-over inspection often enough to prevent trouble. Have a health examination by your physician each year."

Stage and Screen

WEST END THEATER

"With Buffalo Bill On the U. P. Trail," a thrilling epic of frontier days, now showing at the West End theater, is literally lifted from actual history wherever it surrounds the life of William Cody, better known to the people of the world as "Buffalo Bill."

To be sure it has been necessary for picturization purposes to add fictional touches to complete the fabric of a perfectly-woven screen drama. But in the main, the building of the town of Rome by Will Cody and his partner William Rose, was an actual fact, together with the coming of the town locating agent and his threat to run the railroad away from the town, because they refused to declare him "in" as a partner in their enterprise. It reads better than fiction, and it can be truthfully said that "truth was stranger than fiction" in this drama.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Even the most jaded of picture goers will find "The Golden Cocoon," the picture which began a two-day run at the West Coast-Walker theater, a refreshing change from the usual round of screen entertainment.

To begin with, the story—that of a woman's great sacrifice for her husband—has been handled with unusual skill by Director Milward Webb, and does not run into any of the hackneyed grooves. Then, too, Helene Chadwick's performance of the leading feminine role is so sincere a characterization that the sympathy of the audience is immediately enlisted in her behalf.

Huntly Gordon, the husband, is a hero who would make a young wife's sacrifice convincing; and the cruelty of Frank Campeau in another of his fine villainous characterizations is that the sympathy of the audience is immediately enlisted in her behalf.

Huntly Gordon, the husband, is a hero who would make a young wife's sacrifice convincing; and the cruelty of Frank Campeau in another of his fine villainous characterizations is enough to distress any screen heroine.

Richard Tucker, as the fascinating but unworthy professor who wins the love of the girl, makes his performance stand out.

The beautiful photography is the work of Byron Haskins; and with Hope Loring and Louis Lighton responsible for the scenario, this adaptation of Ruth Cross's popular novel of the plain little caterpillar who bursts her golden cocoon, is well worth seeing.

Heading the five act vaudeville bill is the Pajos String Band, in an act called "Musical Oddity" with "Spanish Fantasy." Others on the bill are: The Empire Trio in "Bits of Variety;" Moore and Hazleton in "The Newspaperman;" Jerry Gould in "The Fiddling Ventriloquist;" Al Steiner and His Band.

YOST THEATER

Ginger Rogers, sprightly Port Worth miss, who looks for the world like another Betty Bronson, recently bagged the Texas statewide Charleston contest, held at Dallas. Earl Leach and Jo Butler were runners up. They're all Charlestoners de luxe, and will appear at the Yost theater for the last time tonight in a whirlwind of Charleston steps.

A flirtation at a weighing machine is depicted by Dolly Grey and Bert Byron. Later the flirtation is transferred to the girl's parlor. Miss Grey impersonates a flapper, while her partner portrays a modern young man.

In a delightful vaudeville innovation blending extravaganza and musical comedy with a vein of mysticism, Ernie Gold and Grace Sunshine appear in "An Oriental Rhapsody."

Rogers and Gamble present an act entitled "Laughter and Learning." Gamble adds, subtracts and multiplies at one time as simply as a bright school child does a multiplication table and then as though this is not difficult enough, he multiplies with one hand and adds with another.

Petel and Le Anna and company have a repertoire of foot juggling tricks that is amazing. They toss each other through the air with an uncanny precision.

Richard Barthelmess is presented in his latest film offering, "Just Suppose." The young star is surrounded with a production of unusual splendor and distinction, and Barthelmess has added another fine character to the long list he has created on the screen.

"Just Suppose" is ideal picture entertainment—bright, clean and sparkling in its comedy, appealing in its splendid quality of romance and gripping in its intensely dramatic moments.

men being assigned for the same day. Ed Marble and Merle Morris were the chairmen. Morris presented his daughter, Harriett, in readings, and the little miss cleverly recited, to the amusement of her auditors, "So Was I," "Bargains in Husbands" and "The Proposal." Accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong, Mrs. C. W. Hyde Jr. entertained with pleasing vocal selections, "Yesterday and Today" and "I Passed by Your Window."

Rogers was on Marble's program and, in addition, Marble presented the Walton sisters, in musical number "Serenade" was the first number, violinist, Miss Marjorie Walton accompanying on the piano. "Shuber's Serenade" was the first number offered by the violinist and she played a pleasing number as an encore.

Wife Helps Elect Hubby

"After having been in bed half the time for a year with severe pains in my right side over the appendix, stomach trouble and bloating, which the doctors seemed unable to reach with medicine, and advised operation at the only remedy, my nurse advised me to try Mayr's. One dose will convince, and its results have truly been wonderful as I am now entirely well and strong, and at the last election worked hard to elect my husband." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at all druggists.—Adv.

What do you want from the gasoline you use? Quick starting? Power? Mileage?

If your wants are the same as those of 999 out of every 1000 motorists, your answer will be: "a combination of the three without the sacrifice of any one."

FAIR SUCCESS PREDICTED BY A. M. STANLEY

deavor, embracing the interests of farmer, business man and every one else. After some haggling over whether it should be a plural or a singular "community," the name used above eventually was adopted and the articles of incorporation again were put in the mails.

At about this time, a new problem presented itself. Some one would be needed to conduct a membership campaign, a stock sales campaign and then the sale of concessions for the fair. In the meantime, other problems, connected with the successful production of the coming fair, were becoming manifest and demanding attention. The quiet negotiations for a permanent location for the fair, which had been carried on, were coming to a head and all of this business was too much to be imposed on any one without proper remuneration.

The manager of the former fair had been borrowed from the Orange County Farm bureau, which organization had been posing more or less as a father to the production, but it was doubtful if his services could be obtained for the time necessary to complete all this business. Deliberating on this problem, the directors authorized the president of the fair to request the services of Secretary-Manager A. M. Stanley, of the farm bureau, with only a faint hope that these services would be obtainable. They were not surprised to receive the reply that the farm bureau had employed Stanley to conduct the business of the farm bureau and felt that they needed him there.

The bureau regretted the necessity of making such a reply and would be glad to co-operate with the fair in any way possible, even to the extent of permitting Stanley to act as secretary of the fair corporation, if the directors thought advisable, but as to loaning his full time services for eight months, no. Unless Stanley wanted to quit the farm bureau, (and he didn't) it was up to the directors to secure a manager elsewhere.

Hunt New Manager

Because they had anticipated the answer, the directors were not so much at a loss as it might seem, for during the exchange of courtesies, several possible candidates for the position of manager had been uncovered.

From this list, J. R. Hunt, former newspaper man and former secretary of the Brea Chamber of Commerce, possessing a reputation as a "go-getter," was selected. He started work March 15. The fair board accepted the kind offer of free desk room made by H. E. Wahlberg, farm advisor and director of agricultural extension in Orange county, so Mr. Hunt's office will be found in the farm bureau rooms in the Hall of Records. The fair board also accepted the offer of the farm bureau and retained Stanley as the secretary for the fair, and thus the fair headquarters remain in the same location, for all of which grateful thanks are extended.

Perhaps a good manager could locate a fair in a back yard and get away with it, but he could do much better with a good location. But, before we get away from the subject, let us rise up to remark that the above statement had no reference to the grounds formerly used by the fair. As a matter of fact, the community owes the Union Pacific railroad a deep gratitude for the use of their right-of-way for the fair. Had it not been for their generosity, there wouldn't have been any fair possible heretofore. We admit it. They know it. We have been glad to use the location again but for the objections of the business houses located near the property and the question of whether or not the streets could be closed again. These objections made the securing of a new location almost imperative. For some time, there had been a decided demand for a public recreation ground, located somewhere near the center of population, so we "gum shoed" around and found the most desirable spot in the county and leased it. The site is located on the state highway, between Santa Ana and Anaheim, at the point where the Placentia boulevard turns off. The spot is accessible by a railroad, five highways, and bus line and is provided with gas, electricity and water, with means of sewage disposal. You can obtain an interest in this piece of land, together with a season ticket to the 1926 fair, by becoming a member of the association.

On Top of World

We now are sitting on the top of the world, with a good location, good crops prospective, a full-time manager, an experienced organization and ready to sell memberships and bits of paper comparable to stocks, bearing seven per cent interest on the money you care to put into boosting the county and its agriculture. Under these conditions, the 1926 fair is bound to be a tremendous success.

In comparison with the last fair, the outlook for the 1926 production is indeed rosy. The 1925 fair started business with a capital of about $150 and with no more organization behind it than is usually found in a committee. Perhaps, not as much, for the power that appointed the committee was often in a quandary whether to repudiate it or co-operate with it, and yet the fair was a success. A success in many ways and yet said to be a failure because of one other condition—the committee acquired more property than money! At the close of the show, the management found itself without enough ready money to pay all the bills but possessing property valuable for the production of another fair and yet not valuable enough to be sold at a price that would cover the apparent cash deficit. Seven thousand eight hundred dollars in ready money was needed and the actual invoice of the property was distributed as follows:

Fencing, $825.75; lumber on hand, $1848.68; plumbing supplies, $865; scenery for use of pageant, $575; costumes for pageant, $125; exposition booths, $1050; poultry coops, $914.90; stock stalls, $1800; miscellaneous collection of small tools, etc., $250; total, $8053.34.

Will Inherit Debts

Of course, it is assumed that the 1926 fair will inherit this collection of accounts due and payable but, along with the deficit, it will acquire the property, which it will need for its production. Taking it all in all, the estate will amount to a few hundred dollars to the good. In addition to this inheritance, the 1926 fair also will have the opportunity of selling some 400 or more memberships, equal to $400, and the right to sell $10,000 worth of certificates, which will give it an operating capital of some $150 of its predecessor. It is expected that the county will invest more in the fair this year than formerly, for it is the intention of the fair directors to open the fair site to the public as a recreational ground, when it is not in use for the fair.

At last a real organization has been started and you have a part in it. The list of persons who have been elected to direct the organization, lends dignity and solidity to the enterprise:

H. A. Lake, president, Garden Grove; C. M. Hollingshead, vice president, Anaheim; F. L. Purinton, treasurer, Santa Ana; J. R. Ragan, Villa Park; George T. Kellogg, Yorba Linda; Harry Welch, Newport Beach; R. J. McFadden, Placentia; Mrs. J. V. Felsey, Garden Grove; Mrs. A. P. Nelson, Santa Ana; Roy K. Bishop, Orange; S. W. Stanley, Tustin.

We did not forget a very important action of the directors, in regards to the fair, but we did not know how else to weave it into the picture. Decision has been reached to reproduce the pageant again this year. The play has been re-written, enlarged, bettered and will be more entertaining, spectacular and beautiful than ever. George Gerwing, who is fast becoming noted as a producer of pageantry, has been engaged to direct the show.

FARGO CAPITALIST BOOSTS SANTA ANA

avored beauty spot in California, I would find it in Santa Ana.

"I am glad to say that I and my family have been more than repaid for following her advice.

"A person seeking a quiet life of restful ease amidst sunshine and beautiful surroundings, could not find a better place than St. Ann's Inn which, in comfort, cuisine and service compares favorably with the best tourist hotels in the Southland."

Advantages of Santa Ana

Asked to name some of the things which in his opinion go to make Santa Ana an ideal city for tourists and home-seekers, Holmes replied:

"They are too many to enumerate. "Your city is symbolized by its beautiful name—purity, culture and wholesome atmosphere, reflected in the splendid residences, stately public buildings, and well-kept streets. "And yet there is a distinct individuality about Santa Ana which makes it different from all other Southern California towns. No label, no stamped formula, can be applied to it.

Can't Describe Charm

"There is an indescribable charm about the name of your city, recalling the splendid achievements of the mission fathers, as well as the historical past of the country. This should appeal to your citizens. Those tuneful Spanish appellations, so well preserved in the northern part of the state, are dear to those who love beauty and romance."

While on this subject, the visitor thought that "Calle Real" (the name given the principal street in most Spanish cities) would have been more in tune with the atmosphere of the city than "Main Street," more so as Main street forms an integral part of "El Camino Real," California's famous highway.

To the casual observer, he said, Santa Ana seems happy, content and prosperous. It appears to be entirely sufficient to itself, which condition may explain the lack of effort to attract home-seekers and tourists, he observed.

Adequate Police Protection
Social security, maintained by effective police protection, he observed, is another asset which goes to make Santa Ana a desirable place for well-to-do home-seekers and wealthy tourists. People do not desire to live in places where they are in constant danger from bandits and hold-up men, he said. In this connection, he took occasion to compliment the city administration on the street illumination which contributed to the state of general security.

"I am glad to note the absence of oil derricks and smokestacks," Holmes remarked. High class tourist business and industry do not mix. If you want one, you cannot have the other. When moneyed people come to Southern California, they want to get away from plants and factories."

In conclusion, he expressed his satisfaction over the fact that Santa Ana is not included in the "go-getting" class with its share of real estate booms, free lunch excursions and curbstone solicitors.

Police News

Mrs. R. Miles, 838 North Van Ness street, reported to police today that eight chickens were stolen from her place last night.

Officer B. A. Hershey yesterday arrested a 15-year-old school boy on a petit larceny charge in connection with the theft of a bicycle, owned by Allen Winslow, from the Y.M.C.A. yard. The youth was turned over to juvenile authorities.

RAISES LESS FOOD.

SHREWSBURY, Eng., March 16.—Lloyd George recently stated that for more than 40 years, the agricultural laborer has been clamoring for an interest in the soil, but there are fewer small holdings today than when the agitation began. He said that Great Britain is producing much less food now than at the outbreak of the World war.

OLD DREYFUS STRUCTURE TO BE REMODELED

ANAHEIM, March 17.—Workmen today began remodeling the Dreyfus building at the corner of Center and Los Angeles streets, preparatory for the opening by Kemp brothers of a modern drug store in that location.

E. B. Dreyfus, one of the owners of the building, has secured a permit from Building Inspector E. P. Tompkins to make extensive alterations on the building, which will include cutting the front of the building back to the property line in conformity with present building regulations at a total cost of approximately $9000.

The building is one of the oldest landmarks in the Anaheim business district and its antiquated architecture has long been an eyesore of the town.

Remodeling plans call for two store rooms facing on Center street, one of which will be occupied by the pharmacy. Four smaller store rooms will face on the Los Angeles street.

Construction work is under the direction of the West Brothers Construction company, of Los Angeles.

Baroness High School Speaker

ANAHEIM, March 17.—Painting a picture of the sordid hopelessness of the Russian peasant life, Baroness Ottilie de Ropp, a member of the former Russian aristocracy, addressed a special assembly held in the Anaheim union high school.

The baroness pictured the conditions as they have existed among the Russian peasantry both before and since the revolution, stating that, despite the promises of revolutionary leaders, the people are in just as deplorable a condition today as they were before they overthrew the czar.

The baroness closed her talk by warning the students against a Russian socialist movement known as the Y. M. I., which, she said, is attempting to organize an active branch in the United States and has as its object the overthrow of all the organized governments of the world.

FARRELL AFTER AMERICAN AND BRITISH TITLE

TAMPA, Fla., March 17.—For the first time since he has been playing big league golf, Johnny Farrell, the young Quaker Ridge professional, is setting out this year with the definite objective of winning the American and British national open championships. Farrell, who has been setting his game in from the winter tournaments in this section, is one of the 10 professionals who intend to invade England this summer along with the amateur tennis and golf teams.

"I'm playing better golf than I ever did before and I think I have a fine chance to win a major championship this year, because I missed the open only by one stroke last year.

"I have brought my game along slowly until I have reached the stage where I think I can win a big championship—and hold it. I have gone on the theory that it wouldn't be wise to rush myself into a title before I was ready for it and then get knocked off. The mental attitude is just as essential as the mechanics of the game and I feel confident that I am ready.

"The mental attitude is all that is the matter with Glenna Collett now. She has lost a few matches during the winter season and she has become discouraged to the point where she thinks her game is off. She should have more of the philosophy of a professional believe that today is today and tomorrow is tomorrow. We don't take our gold to bed with us and if we lose today we do not worry and fret about tomorrow."

Farrell has decided definitely to go to England with Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Leo Diegel and a number of other ranking American pros to play in the British open championship and a team match that is being arranged with the British pros. They hope to have 10 players on a side. He believes that one of the American players is almost certain to win the open championship but he is not so sure of the chances of the Americans in a team match.

"KERNELS" BY THE COLONEL

When all the joy in life seems to fade away—when homesickness spreads over you and you've just naturally got a mean case of the blues—don't give up—go up to the motor-cops' office at the courthouse.

Go there on Fridays when the cops are giving drivers or would-be drivers, their examinations. There is to be found enough whole-some comedy to chase away even a case of Memphis blues.

To start the comedy, the examination is as useless as a treasurer to the Bankleasers club, or as telling people not to park in front of the post office, because, in case the driver doesn't come up to the cop's expectations, they give him a license anyway. It's called a temporary license and he can use it until he drives around a bit and can pass the examination. If he kills someone while learning, it's just too bad, that's all.

A Mexican comes in. He doesn't comprehend English and doesn't even attempt it. A cop takes him out in the alley. The Mexican gets in his Ford and the cop gets in and they start. They get exactly eleven feet and the cop calls a halt and the Mexican gets his driver's license, provided he waits for it long enough to be sent down from Sacramento.

Next on the scene is a beautiful blonde. She's driving a Packard straight eight and she has a knockout of a smile. A cop walks out of the door with her. She gets in the car and with the cop beside her, they start. She drives around the block several times. Well, the cop is not so sure—they drive some more. Yes, she probably passes her examination, but guess she had better try the boulevard stops, "just to see if you can do it," she's told. So they ride some more. They ride by the courthouse again and the cop sees another beautiful lady waiting to take the examination, so he tells the blonde, "It'll be all right." Then he repeats the act as long as the flappers hold out.

It's a great old life.

But there is a little grief even in a motorcop's life. The man was a German. Machiney, he knew nothing about. He got in and the cop got in. He backed the car out of the alley beautifully. The cop was ready to get out—then they started forward. Wow!! Fire plugs, trees, curbs all ran right up and hit the front of that car. "It was a shame, too, he backed so prettily," the cop said.

GENERAL BUTLER GOES TO HOSPITAL—headline in Register. "He'd gone there sooner if I'd been the one who threw a party in his honor." Pete Pennyantis, president of the Bankleaser's club said today.

The other day a Santa Ana man had an argument with his fire insurance agent—the rate on his house was too high he said. "Well, that's the best you can get on a shingled roof house," the agent said. "Shingle roof nothing, my roof is composition." More argument. Then they decided to go out and look at the roof. They did. Then and not until then did the man or the agent find out that the home owner had been paying fire insurance rates on the house next door for the past 11 years.

And yet, every fire insurance policy has words to this effect, printed on it: READ YOUR POLICY CAREFULLY.

OUR OWN 14 YEARS AGO
Citizens of the city have decided that by leaving motorists alone—free from police tags—the epidemic of parking in front of the post office will soon blow over.

A prominent English lawyer "arrived back in London today wearing the same smock frock he wore when leaving. He has traveled around the world"—news item. It does look as though he would have run across a Chinese laundry somewhere in his travels.

Following is the second installment of a Lincoln, Neb., paper's "sour grape" tirade against California. The concluding episode of this three-reeler will be shown at this theater tomorrow:

"The grape fruit here is something fine;
Cross between lemon and pumpkin rind.
Where cows eat barley instead of hay,
And the cream gets lost in the milky way.

MOREING SAYS SACS STRONGER THAN IN 1925

By WALLACE KUNKEL (United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, March 17.—Sacramento's Senators will play a different role in the 1926 Coast league pennant chase than they did in the 1925 flag gambol. They may not win the bunting but the season's end will find them well up in the percentage column.

That's what Lewis Moreing, president of the club, thinks of the capital city's chances. And, "Buddy" Ryan, Solon manager, who is oiling up the Sacramento machine on the home lot, also is optimistic.

After the poor showing last year, Moreing set out to strengthen some of the weak spots and he believes he has done it.

"The club looks better to me this year than any season since I took it over six years ago," Moreing said today. "I believe we compare favorably with any club in the league. The team is well balanced, both for offensive and defensive. We have good material in every department and plenty of reserve strength."

Three new men, each of whom hit better than .300 last season, are expected to give the Moreing crew the necessary punch to put over the winning runs. Frank Osborn, outfielder purchased from Omaha last year topped the Western league with .372. Jimmy Monroe, also from the Western league, not only hit better than .300 but was rated as the best second baseman in that circuit. Jack Knight, veteran infielder, last year hit .352 for Denver.

Bill Cunningham, outfielder, who spent most of the 1925 season on the sick list, has rounded into shape and will add hitting power to the club.

And make you think it is really land.
The view of the ocean is really nice.
This is included with the price. They weigh the sack and then the fruit.

Then weigh them again and their fingers to boot.
They claim it is wet if it rains once a year.
You get so dry you can't shed a tear.

The chickens have mites and the dogs have fleas,
The desert winds blow and the oranges freeze."
(To Be Continued)

Merlin Kopp, Clarence Hoffman, Jim Sweeney and Louis Smacker also are angling for outfield jobs. In the infield Ray French and Jimmy McLaughlin will handle shortstop and third base, respectively, and Jimmy Monroe replaces Paddy Siglin at second. The initial sack will be well cared for by Wilbur Davis and Jack Knight. Fred Pfahler, a young infielder, is showing up well in practice games and may land on the team.

Little change in battery lineup is noted. Rudy Kallio, right hander, secured in the trade that sent Frank Shellenback to the Hollywood club, is the new member of the pitching squad. Bill Hughes, "Speed" Martin, Ray Keating and Elmer Shea are the other right hand fingers. While the portlanders consist of Carroll and Wallace Canfield, brothers, and Louis Vinci, "Bud" Twitchell and Sonny Wright, youngsters, given a try-out in the latter part of last season, are working with the club.

Two veterans and three youngsters comprise the receiving crew. Art Koehler and Mervin Shea are the regulars, with Dan Alley, J. Offer and Eugene Wachenfeld trying for positions.

INDIGESTION SPELLS— COULD HARDLY EAT

"I suffered with indigestion for six years," says Mr. H. C. Dove, of Chester, S. C., "telling of the disorders from which he finally found relief through the use of Theodor's Black-Draught."

"I had gotten to the place where I could hardly eat a thing. Everything hurt. I had smothering spells and fell off twenty pounds. I was in a bad fix."

"I read of Black-Draught, and decided to try it. I took a big dose daily and in three months' time I saw a big change."

"I had gotten to where I only ate milk and crackers, but after I began on Black-Draught, I began to eat and gradually got my appetite back. I gained in weight and I felt better. I have not had a bad spell of indigestion in ten months."

"I believe Black-Draught is the best liver medicine made. I can not say enough for what it has done for me. I have used it in large doses and have taken small doses after meals and find both ways very satisfactory. I am glad to tell others what it did for me. I feel so grateful for what Black-Draught did for me that I want others to know, for it may help them as it helped me."

One of the first things to do in an attack of indigestion is to clear the system of all undigested particles of food. Theodor's Black-Draught will do this very thoroughly and will also stimulate the digestive organs to carry on their normal work, and help in eliminating poisons and impurities from the system.

Black-Draught is composed entirely of pure, medicinal roots and herbs of natural, harmless action. It contains no mineral or other harmful drugs and no sugar syrup, which sometimes disorders the stomach.

The vegetable ingredients of Black-Draught are carefully combined in clean, up-to-date laboratories, in just the proportions that scientific experience has shown to be the best for the purpose.

CLEVELAND SEDAN

Lowers All Touring Car Records Salt Lake City to Los Angeles

Cleveland Record, 20 Hrs. 2 Min., Averaging 38.76 Miles Per Hr.
Previous Record, 22 Hrs. 14 Min., Averaging 38.1 Miles Per Hr.
Fastest Train Time, 24 Hrs. 34 Min., Averaging 31.86 Miles Per Hr.

On Sunday, March 7th, a strictly stock Cleveland "31" Sedan checked out of the main office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, Salt Lake City, Utah, at 4:40 A. M. Mountain Time, and checked in at the main office of the Western Union in Los Angeles at 11:32 P. M. Pacific Time.

The elapsed time of 20 hours, 2 minutes is 2 hours, 12 minutes faster than the best previous record from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles and is quicker than the fastest train time. In making the record the Cleveland Sedan established a record for speed affording convenience of closed car luxury and comfort, and is the only authentic time record of a closed car between these two cities.

The Cleveland carried full touring equipment, with the addition of Hartford Shock Absorbers; was equipped with Firestone Tires and used Pennzoil Oil and Richfield Gasoline.

Of the 776 Miles actually covered, only 188 are paved, approximately 300 Miles are dirt road and the remainder are over detours and temporary highways in use during the construction period of the southern end of the Arrowhead Trail.

All previous records were made by open cars selling at $1800 to $2500, while the Cleveland "31" Sedan, which set this new record sells for $1280—delivered in Los Angeles.

TROJAN FRESHMEN FAVORITES TO BEAT J. C.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

When Harry Greb lost the world's middleweight championship recently, the writer took occasion to remark that with the coronation of Tiger Flowers the light heavyweight division was the only one that never had been ruled by a negro champion.

"What color do you think Siki was?" came over the phone a few days later and it had to be admitted that Siki was very dark and that he had been the light heavyweight champion of the world.

It was another good example of how short lived fame is. Siki was not such a great fighter that he should be registered indelibly in memory as Dixon, Gans, Wolcott and Johnson were but he was an eccentric and his death from an assassin's bullet should have made him remembered for more than a few brief months.

Georges Carpentier, whose career was closely linked with that of Siki towards its end, has also experienced the fickleness of fame and the brevity of memory.

Carpentier was an international figure just a few years ago. When he came to this country his arrival was a first page event. Scores of reporters interviewed him. Batteries of cameras worked on him. Hundreds turned for a look when he passed on the streets and hotels fought for his patronage.

But when he was flopped by Siki in a fight that he always claimed was the result of a double-cross, Carpentier slipped out of public favor.

Just a few weeks ago he sat every afternoon watching his countrymen, Rene Lacoste, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon play in the national indoor tennis championships and he was hardly given a tumble. Borotra had played the final round for the title, which Lacoste won, the two French stars were asked to pose for a picture in their dressing room.

Borotra speaks English very well and he pointed to a visitor in the room and asked: "Do you want him too. He would be very good for the picture?"

"Who's he?" the photographer asked.

"Why, that's Carpentier?" Borotra replied in amazement.

"Let him in then if you want him," the photographer said.

Carpentier perhaps would prefer not to be annoyed by the public but he must have felt the lack of interest that the boxing promoters took in him.

CALIFORNIA HOLDS BIG LEAD IN MEETS WITH TROJANS BUT L. A. SCHOOL MAY WIN SAT.

LOS ANGELES, March 17.—Should the University of Southern California defeat the University of California at the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday, it will be the third time in 15 meetings between the two schools that the Trojans have won.

S. A. COVINA MEET AT POLY PARK THURSDAY

Santa Ana's baseball teams—champions of the Coast Preparatory league, Coach Lyman Kidman says—will have a chance to show their wares tomorrow when the high powered Covina team comes here for a return game.

In reality, the match amounts to the first test of the Poly nine before Santa Ana followers of the national sport.

The locals hold a 13 to 7 decision over Covina, having gained this in a clash last week on their opponent's park.

Poly's left handed twirler, Floyd Rister, will be started on the mound, Coach Kidman announced. Captain Ed Daley has been stationed behind the log in the revamped lineup. Chet Siegel will play third base.

Others who have won temporary positions as regulars from among the battalion of 50 candidates for team positions are Jerry Heard, 1b; Harold English, 2b; Ralph Lindsey, ss; George Preble, lf; Tom Hitt, cf, and Harold Pea, rf.

To date, the Bruins and Trojans have met in 14 meets since 1908. Twice Southern California has vanquished her northern rival. The victories were consecutive. With two world's champions on the team, Howard Drew and Fred Kelly, the Trojans whipped the Bears 6 to 5 in 1913, and in the following year they triumphed 67 1-3 to 54 2-3. Since that day in 1914, it has been a long, lean wait for the Los Angeles trackmen.

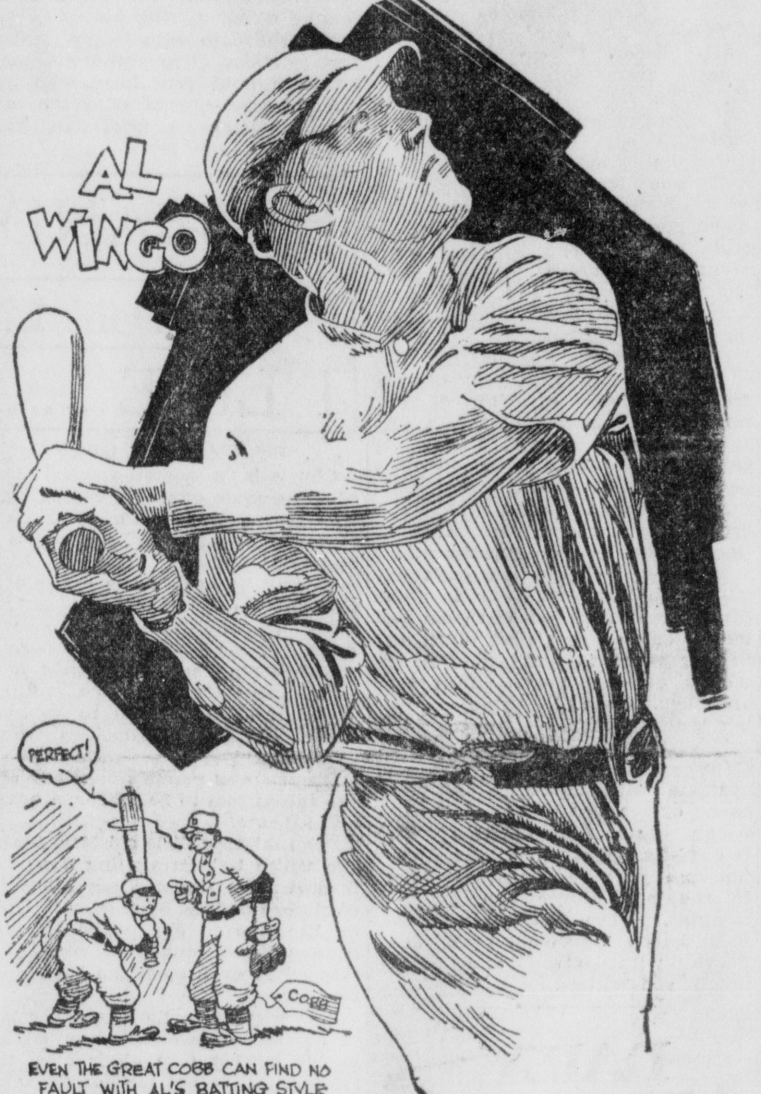

Southern California has its best chance in recent years of beating the Bruins. The ineligibility of Captain Jim Barber and Dana Carey has materially weakened the Bears, and Coach Cromwell has too strong an aggregation to be staked to many handicaps.

The California team will enter the meet favored to win by a few points, but this advantage is likely to be upset if the Trojans manage to secure any of the breaks.

The Trojans have a list of sick and injured which may not be lessened by the time of the meet. Herschel Smith, one of the greatest sprinters on the coast when in condition, has his usual leg injury. Bruce Smith has an infected toe. These two boys have been on the hospital roll for most of their careers and Coach Dean Cromwell may have trouble in bringing them into shape for this affair Saturday.

According to the program mapped out by Manager McGraw the Giants will play their first exhibition game of the season on March 9, when they will line up against the Buffalo International League team at Saratoga.

HERE'S MAN COBB MAY PICK TO SUCCEED HIM AS PLAYER

Billy Evans Says

ALEXANDER TALKS

I was rather interested in reading what Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Chicago Cubs had to say the other day relative to the use of resin.

Alexander is one of the greatest pitchers the game has ever known. Like all great pitchers, throughout his career he has been long on control. Batters must earn their way to first base with Alexander pitching.

"Nothing doing on the resin for me," says Alexander. "I have been pretty successful using natural methods to fool the batter and I am going to continue along those lines."

"Last year several of our pitchers rubbed resin on their hands between innings, insisting it helped them get more stuff on the ball. Being curious I tried it but the result was most disappointing."

"Instead of helping control on hot days I am sure it will retard that feature. Resin has a tendency to make my hands sticky and hand-capped rather than helped me. So I intend to go along in the same old way."

I am inclined to string with Alexander. Resin in the spring and fall will enable the pitchers to get more stuff on the ball, largely through trickery, but in the real warm weather is certain to handicap control.

RULE DIFFERENCE

There is nothing unusual about the American league placing the ban on resin. For years both leagues have had at least a half dozen league rules governing their games that have been at variance with the strict interpretation of the rules.

There was a striking illustration of this condition when both leagues used the Polo Grounds in New York. The distance from the home plate to the grandstand is much less than 90 feet.

The rule says the baserunner is entitled to an extra base if the ball touches any fence, or building less than 90 feet from the home plate. In the American league games any such a happening made the ball dead and basemen could advance only one base. In the National league, the baserunner was entitled to the extra base but could advance more at his peril. Thus the two leagues differed

Ty Cobb, conceded to be the greatest baseball player of all time, does all things well. Among his many accomplishments is an uncanny ability to solve the offerings of opposing pitchers.

Cobb, for nine successive years, led the American league at bat and has 12 championships to his credit.

On the Detroit club is another outfielder who can hit the pill, Al ("Red") Wingo. Like Cobb, Wingo is a left-hander and hits 'em hard to all fields.

"He's the greatest natural hitter in baseball," is Cobb's tribute to Wingo.

"Once he acquires the habit of waiting out the pitcher and picking the ball he likes to hit, he is going to be even tougher to fool. At present 'Red' overlooks the value of getting the pitcher in the hole, being content to swing at any ball delivered close to the plate."

Natural ability, Cobb has let well enough alone and not tried to change his style.

15 SCHOOLS NOW ENTERED IN SOUTHERN COUNTIES CLASSIC AT HUNTINGTON BEACH TRACK

M'GRAW READY TO SEND GIANT TEAM IN RACE

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent)

SARASOTA, Fla., March 17.—One of the biggest reasons why the New York Giants as a rule have a good ball club and why they will have an unusually good team this year is John J. McGraw.

The veteran manager of the New York National league club always has a few good ball players around him and the good and the not so good as he tells them and he knows what to tell them.

It was the same iron hand that forced Jack Scott to sign a contract when he was holding out for more money and it was the same hard rule that kept Frankie Frisch, Freddy Lindstrom and other star players from dictating the terms of their contract.

Of all the star players who wanted more money, only Bill Terry, the sub first baseman, is holding his ground.

Let him stay where he is. We don't need him," McGraw said.

From the looks of the Giant squad McGraw does not need any more players than he now has on hand with the possible exception of a hustling young catcher and he may have found him in Melvin Ott or MacMullen. McGraw, however, was to make an outfielder out of Ott.

The team with which McGraw feels confident he will beat out the Pittsburgh Pirates will line up as it started last season and as it would have played through if it had not been wrecked by injuries. There may be only one change, in center field, where Al Tyson, a highly touted rookie, may replace Billy Southworth.

Infield is decided. George Kelly, Frank Frisch, Travis Jackson and Freddy Lindstrom have been decided upon as the infield.

"Irish" Meusel, Tyson and "Pop" Young will be the regular outfield with Southworth in reserve.

McGraw bubbles over when he talks about his pitching staff. In Kent Greenfield, Fred Fitzsimmons, Hugh McCulligan, Jock Scott, Art Nehf, Virgil Barnes and Tim McNamara, he claims to have the best pitching staff in years.

The military discipline that prevails around the Giant camp is most impressive and it conveys the idea that McGraw has good ball players and that they have to play ball, or else.

The American league in placing a ban on the resin bag, simply refuses to conform to a rule that it believes savors of trickery. The rule is not compulsory, merely optional.

AL CLAYES TO MEET PAIR OF ACE SPRINTERS

Vawter-Unruh Mile Race Is Another Good Card; S. A. to Be Big Meet Scene

Doping out how the Santa Ana junior college track team and the aggregation of freshmen stars of the University of Southern California will stack up in the meet here Friday afternoon is interesting Santa Ana track fans. In dual meets this year, neither the U. S. C. freshmen nor the Santa Ana collegians have been defeated.

A galaxy of stars will be included in the visiting ensemble. But unless they can take seconds and thirds, Coach Graham Harris says his Santa Ana tracksters will beat the "Olympic champions of 1928," coached by Dean Cromwell.

Perhaps the feature race of the afternoon will be the century in which Al Clayes of the local squad will oppose the dust, Bomb and Draper, both 10 flat men. Clayes, conceded to be one of the fastest sprinters in the Southland, will be pressed to his utmost.

The fleet Santa Ana sprinter was declared ineligible for junior college conference meets yesterday but this rule will not interfere with his competing against the Trojan yearlings.

Clayes already holds one decision over Borah, having beaten the former Ohio prep ace at the A. A. U. meet in 10 seconds flat, but he has never tested the starting line with Draper who is reputed to be capable of shading even time.

The freshmen have admittedly been looking forward to the clash with the Santa Ana junior college as the toughest meet on their schedule. It would be quite a feather in their cap if the locals could out-point the frosh stars.

The Clayes-Borah-Draper dash will not be the only high powered contests of the afternoon. Bob Vawter, the elongated Santa Ana distance runner, can stop a nasty mile and he may force Chesley Unruh, the former El Monte high school boy, who has negotiated the four laps in 4:25, to do some record shattering to take a first place.

In addition to Unruh and its crack sprinters, U. S. C. will send here Ed Gloese, state interscholastic 800 champion last season; Jack Williams, holder of the world's interscholastic record in the pole vault at 13 feet; Bowen, a high jumper with a mark of 3 feet, 2 inches, and numerous other remarkable track and field performers.

POLY HOCKEY GIRLS TO MEET ANAHEIM

Determined to wipe out the 2 to 0 defeat handed them at the time of the first meeting of the two teams this year, the girls' hockey team of the Santa Ana high school will travel to Anaheim tomorrow for an engagement with the Mother Colony "shinney" experts.

Especially cutting was the defeat registered against Santa Ana because it was the first time that the local co-eds were forced to bow to any county hockey team since the sport was organized four years ago.

For the return match, Miss Alverda West, girls' coach, will probably use in the lineup the Misses Virginia Brannon, Sherrill Spurgeon, Hazel Hilgers, Gayle Baldwin, Marie Tomlinson, Evelyn Yount, Lenore Fernandez, Alberta Broomfield, Mary Jane Owens, Edna Backs and Louise Pea.

WILLARD 7TH GRADE BALL TEAM WINNER

By FLETCHER BUXTON
Frances E. Willard junior high school seventh grade baseball team was credited with a decisive victory over the eighth graders when they piled up a 9 to 4 score over them yesterday.

There were only three seventh graders on the team, the remaining six players being composed of men from miscellaneous grades, with Coaches Archer and Raitt playing first base and catcher, respectively. The game was a five-inning tilt, the first two innings resulting in a tie score but after that the seventh graders' piled up a sufficient number of runs to win.

Hollingberry wired acceptance of an offer made a few days ago, which specified that Bailey be his assistant and that the seventh graders' piled up a sufficient number of runs to win.

He plants His footsteps in the sea,
And rides upon the storm.

THE DATE, APRIL 27, IMPORTANT

April 27 has become an important day in present day history of Santa Ana, if one may look six weeks ahead and say that something still to be done is "history." The reason why April 27 has become an important date is that the City Council has set that day as the day for holding an election at which two bonding proposals and a tax levy proposal are to be voted upon by the registered voters of Santa Ana.

The purpose of this editorial is two-fold. First, we desire to call attention to the fact that an opportunity is to be given to vote upon a question that has been agitated from time to time for a third of a century at least—the question of parks—and to vote upon a levy for maintaining a municipal band. Second, we want to point out that only those who have been registered by the county clerk or one of his deputies since January 1, 1926, will be allowed to vote at the election. The fact that you voted last year or the year before gives you no right to vote at this bond election; the law requires registration this year.

In calling special attention to the parks issue and band levy, we in no way minimize the other proposal. In fact, the necessity of passing bonds for extending the outfall sewer, used jointly by a number of communities of Orange county, is imperative. If one wants to put it that way, we are under orders from the State Board of Health. We must remedy a situation that exists at the outfall by reason of the fact that the sewage flows into the ocean so close to the shore that it constitutes a public menace. It is not Santa Ana's desire to allow that nuisance to continue a day longer than is necessary to apply the remedy. We can see no reason why anybody should cast a vote against whatever bonds are necessary to raise money to pay for our share of the extension. The question is one that seems to us to be beyond argument.

To those who are interested in securing the passage of bonds for parks and playgrounds and to those who are asking that an annual levy be established for maintaining a municipal band, it is well to point out that at this time that the first work before them is to see to it that the voters of Santa Ana not now on the great register get their names upon it forthwith. No one will be allowed to vote on that day, April 27, whose name has not been on the great register for at least thirty days.

VOTING ON PROHIBITION

In spite of the activities of a group of Senators and Representatives in Congress, there does not seem to be any way to get the real sentiment of the country on the subject of enforcement of the Volstead law, except at the regular congressional election next fall. In the past that has not been a direct test, because other issues than prohibition determined the vote in most districts, but this year it is likely the wet and dry issue will be the chief one, especially at the primaries. If the next Congress should be approximately as dry as the present one it would indicate that the majority of people want the Volstead act enforced and do not wish to risk a return of the old saloon conditions by legalizing the sale of wine and beer with a "kick" in them.

The proposal of the anti-Volstead bloc, that a popular vote be taken the legalizing of "non-intoxicating" beer of 3.75 per cent begs the whole question. It assumes that such a percentage is in fact non-intoxicating, which is the very point at issue. The newspaper vote now being taken all over the country is more fair in that respect, because it says nothing about intoxication, but makes the direct issue between the present law and one permitting wine and real beer. Yet the total vote will represent but a small fraction of the electors of the country and cannot be representative of their will.

An indication of the unrepresentative character of such a ballot is given in the Seattle situation. The vote in the state of Washington, taken chiefly in Seattle, shows more than 4,000 against the present law and about 700 for it. That is about 6 to 1. Yet in the election just held the city gave 6,000 majority for a woman mayor who made rigid enforcement of prohibition her chief plank. It is impossible to harmonize these two expressions of opinion, and we must accept actual ballots in a genuine election as the most authentic. So, we shall have to await the decision in the congressional election in November to learn what the country at large thinks of the 18th amendment and its enforcement.

RELIGIOUS RIVALRY

Can it be that the advocates of religious unity are all wrong? Here is President Lowell of Harvard explaining poor attendance at churches by decrease in hostility among various sects.

"Man is a combative animal," he says, "and the recent increase in co-operation between different denominations has caused many church followers to lose interest."

He suggests that rivalry among churches is just as necessary to keep up church membership as intercollegiate football games to bring students to college.

Some of us, however, are not quite so sure about the ultimate value of college athletics nowadays, even when their advertising value is granted. And surely religion, whose professed ideal has always been peace and harmony among men, is in an unfortunate situation if it can thrive only on church warfare.

NO MORE SALT SPEECH

The U. S. Navy "ain't what it used to be." Look at this bulletin, sent out recently to be read by all sailors in the fleet:

"Commander-in-chief has noted in the records of proceedings of various courts and boards that witnesses used expressions such as 'guinea pullman,' 'spud coxswain,' 'jawbone' and others. While it is highly desirable in all cases that witnesses testify in their own words, the use of slang, etc., well, it's considered in very bad taste, if not evidence of insubordination.

Dear, dear! Morals and taste and discipline must be upheld, and a great language preserved intact, but isn't this going just a little too far in the cause of purity? Shall we have no more rolling gait in our conversation, no picturesque seafolk delivering themselves in "round, sailor-like terms," as is traditionally their right and duty?

Why, our elegant admirals would make a pirate talk like a parson or a professor. Ichabod! The glory of salt water is departed when there is no more salt in sailor speech.

AMERICAN ART CENTERS

Money has brought a great many European art treasures to this country in recent years. Now those treasures are bringing European collectors who hope to take many of them back to their original haunts. As a result of all this maneuvering, New York has become a great art center or art market. Some European collections are brought directly there for sale.

There are moments when a thoughtful American fears that it is the money value of these treasures, rather than their art value, that is attractive to Americans. That is only partly true. America is developing appreciation of these things along with its zest for mere ownership.

Title Certificate for Auto

San Bernardino Sun

In round numbers there were stolen in the United States last year 250,000 automobiles. Of these 80 per cent were recovered sooner or later. Without including the damage done to such machines or the loss of their use while in wrong hands, the remaining 20 per cent had a value of approximately $50,000,000. But that does not represent all the loss incurred. Many of the stolen machines were used in holdup operations, with loss of both money and life associated with them. That it would be highly desirable to have this stopped needs no argument.

Many methods have been tried, including the requiring of a bill of sale, but the only plan which has been really successful is that of requiring every person who claims to own a car to possess a certificate of title. No car could be sold which had once been registered without a recorded transfer of this certificate. Any person driving a car and not having such a certificate in the eyes of the law would be prima facie a thief and would be compelled to prove his innocence, and the production of an alleged bill of sale would not constitute such proof. The trouble now is that persons who consider themselves honest will purchase a used car at a low price and pay no attention to the matter of its possibly having been stolen. Under a certificate of title they would be compelled to make sure of its ownership before purchase.

Must Find His Own Way

San Francisco Chronicle

Among the many young men annually graduated from the universities we are proud to have dotting the map of the United States it is inevitable that a certain number should come to the conclusion that the world is full of bumps. Probably the youth who wrote recently to the University of Nebraska voices the complaint of the disillusioned contingent.

This young man received his sheepskin which he took as a certificate that the world was his oyster. Strangely enough the world refused to open for him. He showed his sheepskin and it failed to get him a good job. So he has informed his alma mater that the four years he spent in its cloisters were wasted and advises that several professors be fired and a $15,000-a-year vocational guide be employed instead.

Just why he hit on the $15,000 figure is not clear. Possibly it is suggested by his frame of mind. What is clear is that the young man has been working on the wrong theory. Any youth who wanders into a university under the impression that it is an employment agency is due for a disappointment. The world is full of people who get good jobs and keep them without any university training at all. The university tries and in a large number of cases succeeds in equipping the student with better mental training than he otherwise would have had. But it cannot be expected to take him by the hand and lead him to the woodpile. He must find his own way.

Not a Wholly Bad World

Little Rock (Ark.) Gazette

During the last few days the Gazette has printed among other news stories an account of the stealing of Pancho Villa's head; a dispatch dealing with a serious crime at Tia Juana, and another having to do with lawlessness in Chicago.

But there were also stories of other character. An Arkansas banker who happened to be of the Jewish faith had celebrated his 60th birthday by giving a considerable sum of money to the Christian church of his town. And a mountain preacher, offered a monthly increase of $20 in his small stipend, had made his congregation compromise on $10 because he felt the lesser amount was all they could afford.

The little white deed of unselfishness and magnanimity may be overshadowed in the news by the big black deeds of sordidness and violence. But in the aggregate there are enough of the former to keep the world a fairly clean and pleasant place.

DON'T STAY TOO LONG IN WATER

There is little to be gained from a health viewpoint by loitering in the water for several hours at a time. To obtain the beneficial effects of a swim one should not remain in the water longer than 30 minutes.

It is much better to enter the water several times daily, taking a brisk rub after each swim and change into dry clothes, instead of allowing the clothing to dry on the body as some do at the seashore.

Everyone who swims should know how to protect himself while in the water and also be familiar with life-saving methods. Diving in shallow water, unnecessarily long swims beyond reach of assistance and swimming beneath fixed objects are acts of poor judgment.

The prone method of resuscitation, including artificial respiration, known as the Shafer method, should be known by every swimmer. Immediate application of the principles embodied in the Shafer method will sometimes save life even when practiced by the inexperienced.

Descriptions of these methods are available from various sources, among which may be mentioned the American Red Cross, which issues bulletins and gives practical demonstrations of life-saving methods.

Swimming is a sport to be encouraged because of its value as exercise and diversion. The casual swimmer soon discovers unused muscles and finds himself breathing more deeply than has been his custom. It is an exercise not limited by age, being available for the elderly as well as the young, provided they have no organic impairment and react well to the hardy exercise involved.

To the mentally and physically tired swimming acts as a disseminator of fatigue products, planting in their stead a sense of well-being and exhilaration. It is distinctly a sport worth cultivating, provided the necessary safeguards are provided in an intelligent and sensible manner. Mere bathers should double the pleasure they derive from the water by learning to swim.

What Has Become of Our Little Boy Blue

San Bernardino Sun

With the last stanza of his famous poem, "Little Boy Blue," sounding as a requiem, the body of Eugene Field, the children's poet—to use the words of an Associated Press dispatch—was last Sunday enshrined for posterity in a tomb near Chicago.

We don't know whether "Little Boy Blue" is still read in the schools of San Bernardino, but we can remember that it was in the fourth grade in the old F street school when we first read it through eyes dimmed by the mist of those first tears released by the surge of sentiment.

The little toy dog is covered with dust.

But sturdy and staunch he stands,
And the little toy soldier is red with rust,
And his musket mottles in his hands.
Time was when the little toy dog was new
And the soldier was passing fair,
And that was the time when our Little Boy Blue Kissed them and put them there.

"Now, don't you go till I come," he said,
"And don't you make any noise!"
So toddling off to his trundle-bed
He dreamt of the pretty toys.
And as he was dreaming an angel song
Awakened our Little Boy Blue.
Oh, the years are many, the years are long,
But the little toy friends are true.

Aye, faithful to Little Boy Blue they stand.

Each in the same old place,
Awaiting the touch of a little hand,
The smile of a little face,
And they wonder, as waiting these long years through,
In the dust of that little chair,
What has become of our Little Boy Blue
Since he kissed them and put them there.

There to pay respect to Field's memory were the grown children who had wept as many thousands had wept and on through the ages will continue to weep over the joys and sorrows of the characters of this poet. The body was moved from an obscure grave for Field died in young manhood before he had fairly touched the hearts of readers.

The simple inscription is marked on the tomb: "Eugene Field 1850-1895, the children's poet." It is enough, for his most famous work, "Little Boy Blue," is inscribed on the hearts of thousands and will live longer than the tomb.

Worth While Verse

LOSS AND GAIN

When I compare
What I have lost with what I have gained;
What I have missed with what attained,
Little room do I find for pride.

I am aware
How many days have been idly spent;
How like an arrow the good intent
Has fallen short or been turned aside.

But who shall dare
To measure loss and gain in this wise?
Defeat may be victory in disguise;
The lowest ebb is the turn of the tide.
—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The Very Idea!

FRIENDSHIP

The east is east and the west is west and some like this, or the other best. When in the east, the west is far, and the east's the same when it's west you are.

A man may hail from a far off coast, move some place else, in his work engrossed, but he never forgets it, after all—that deep desire, and that far-off call.

As Burns once said, a man's a man, who can make real friends like a real man can. He can step right in where there are no breaks in the friendship gag when he pulls up stakes.

He can go back home; leave his friends behind. He can settle down in his peace of mind, 'cause he knows that friendship really gains. Though he's gone, his spirit still remains.

There ain't no word like the word "goodby," when you shout it out to a tip-top guy. He can shake your hand and be on his way, but the good old feeling sticks for aye.

There are more than 500 broadcasting stations in this country, not counting gossip.

When a man is suffering from overwork, the rest of the family hopes it isn't contagious.

She aimed to cut her weight a bit with exercise galore. Instead of eating lunch, she took a roll upon the floor.

NOW, HONESTLY

Consider the friendly waitress. She's the girl who walks a million miles a day, totting a million dishes a day, and attempts to satisfy a million odd appetites a day.

We all get peeved at her—maybe because she neglects to bring more butter—or because she makes a slight mistake in our order.

And we persist in forgetting that she's just a human being. It's pretty soft for the rest of us to simply walk in and order her around.

Let's make it a bit softer for her by returning the friendliness and the patience she gives us.

If a noiseless typewriter really is, I'll betcha my best radio record she doesn't chew gum.

No use arguing about balloon trousers. They're just about as broad as they are long.

In the Long Ago

14 Years Ago Today
From the Register Files

MARCH 17, 1912

Walter B. Tedford, assistant cashier of the First National bank was temporarily blinded when a gas heater exploded at his home.

County Clerk W. B. Williams received a state circular stating that "prohibitionists could not register as prohibitionists as the party was out of commission."

Miss Cora Huntington entered a will with a St. Patrick party. B. F. Townsend sold a 50-foot frontage on Bush street just north of the Grand Opera house to C. P. Remsburg.

M. S. Palmer and Charles Palmer sold a five-acre walnut grove at the corner of Santa Clara avenue and Bush street to W. G. Miller for $7500.

The following advertisement appeared in The Register: For Rent—Four room house, fruit trees, gas and such $13.00 per month; $15.00 if electric lights are put in.

Tail of Comma

A tail of a comma is a little thing, but it is being depended upon to decide a will case and, perhaps convict somebody of forgery. A New York justice in reviewing the proceedings in the surrogate's court at White Plains made the discovery that a will in dispute had been written upon a blank form from which the printed name of the maker has been cut off. But the cutting had not gone far enough. It left exposed the tail of the comma, and as it was subsequently shown that the blank in question had not been printed until some time after the date on the alleged will, the document was adjudged a forgery. There are many cases in court annals where a microscopic defect in one of the letters of a typewriting machine has led to the discovery of crime, but the comma tail probably occupies a place of its own in the story of the slips and oversights of not too adroit criminals.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Vocabulary of Youth

New York Times.

Princeton seniors, according to an official estimate, have increased their drawing account on the English language by a thousand words since the year 1916. Once upon a time such an enrichment of the individual vocabulary would have been considered enormous. Then it was the habit to speak of stock of 500 words as ample to meet the needs of the ordinary day laborer, and Shakespeare himself was believed to have been content with 13,000 words. The Bard's supposed maximum is now the maximum for the normal educated man, according to the Princeton authorities. To be sure, the estimates have a noble range—from 10,000 words to 35,000 words.

Where comes the enrichment of the undergraduate's vocabulary? The Princeton authorities believe it is the result of wider reading. But it would be useful to have "reading" defined. Is it the kind which once upon a time was supposed to make a "full man," in other words, books? The safer guess is that the undergraduate's vocabulary has been enriched by the thesauri of youth. The war has contributed, specifically with its shell-shock TNT: "buddy," an entire vocabulary in itself. Invention has played its part; aviation and radio alone would contribute a sizable list. Science, from its simple new coinage, has spilled over into popular use with its relativities, electrons and cytoplasm. Archaeology must have added to the undergraduate's stock of proper names—Ur, Kish, Maya, Amon, Aton, Tut and Minos—not to start making black marks on the person who turned to gold everything he touched, but the person who introduced bathrooms and sanitary drainage into Crete 3500 years ago. And of course Mr. Volstead has contributed more than a mite to the speech of every man. If Princeton men are much like other college men and women, and if college men and women are in daily speech what they are in their undergraduate publications, then it is plain whence the largest accession of vocabulary which youth employ in speaking frankly about their parents and the world built up by said parents. Prominent among the new words must be these:

moron
Babbitt Rotarian
Kiwanis
Homo Sapiens
Venus Mercatoria
sublimite
sophisticated herd morality
rationalize
emancipated

straitjacket propaganda censorship
politzer
Homo Sapiens
Venus Mercatoria
sublimite
sophisticated
herd morality
emancipated

If to these we add the terminology of college life proper—ataboy, peach (n. f.) prune (n. f.), etc.—we shall probably get a very large proportion of those newly acquired 1000 words.
